SERUM SENT NORTH MAY BE USELESS

Freezing May Have Robbed Anti-toxin of Efficiency, Fear of Physician

By HARRY PHILLIPS
For International News Service.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 3.—New terror struck at plague-stricken Nome today. Rumors were circulated in the camp that the precious serum rushed across the icy tundra by dog teams had been rendered useless by freezing.

Dr. Curtis Welch, Nome's lone physician who is fighting the epidemic, was making exhaustive tests of the serum and said he would know tonight if freezing had robbed the remedy of its efficacy.

With reports that the daring race to bring into Nome 300,000 units of the anti-toxin may have been in vain, it was officially said there were five new cases in camp. Official confirmation of the report may not be made until tonight when the board of health will meet.

Urge Airplane's Use

There were twenty-eight cases, twenty-eight suspects and 100 contacts officially reported in the camp today and members of the board of health announced they planned to appeal that a shipment of anti-toxin be rushed

Girl Enters Race as Business Woman Seeking Business Job From People

Miss Ruth W. Kern, of 332 West Harvard street, deputy city treasurer since May, 1921, who yesterday through The Glendale Evening News, announced her intention of becoming a candidate to succeed J. C. Sherer, present city treasurer, today is busy formulating her campaign plans with all the confidence of a seasoned politician, although she insists she is not entering the race as a politician, but as a business woman seeking a business job.

"I'm not keen on politics, but I know I can do it", was the frank but confident declaration made this morning by Miss Kern.

"Other cities have women treasurers and other women are running for office of treasurer in nearby cities. Glendale had a woman who was a member of the board of trustees some years ago, and there is no reason why a woman should not fill the office of treasurer.

"My commercial experience has fitted me for the work, which I love, and I feel that the record I have made as deputy city treasurer of Glendale is good foundation on which to take up the duties of treasurer. I am sure that not only progressive women of Glendale, but business men as well, will favor a capable woman's election".

Now that the first thrill of the announcement of her candidacy is wearing off, Miss Kern is busy formulating plans for a campaign that will be an interesting feature of the spring election.

TRIO OF SITES REMAIN FOR DECISION

Burbank, Palos Verdes and Westwood Lead In Choice For College Branch

At one of the largest mass meetings ever to assemble in Burbank, held last night at the City Hall on Olive avenue, $1,500 was pledged toward a $4,000 campaign fund being raised to urge the University of California, Southern Branch, to locate in that city.

Hundreds of enthusiastic residents contributed to the fund, after hearing a report from Harry Wood of the Chamber of Commerce university committee, in which he declared the choice has narrowed down to Burbank, Palos Verdes and Westwood, the latter being otherwise known as the Beverly Hills site.

Of these three locations now under consideration by the site committee of seventeen, appointed by the regents of the university, Burbank is the only one fulfilling the requirement that the site must be a gift, Mr. Wood declared.

Boost Burbank Site

The Burbank site comprises over 700 acres in the Benmar Hills tract lying north of San Fernando boulvard. The Palos Verdes tract comprises 1,000 acres, while the Westwood tract comprises 400 acres, Mr. Wood said.

It is rumored that the regents of the university look with favor on the Westwood tract, which is being aggressively sponsored by Hollywood Chamber of Commerce and other Los Angeles civic bodies.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce and other Glendale organizations are doing all they can to help Burbank win the University of California branch and The Glendale Evening News, too, is doing everything possible to further the selection of the Burbank site.

Nominated

GERALD D. DOCKERAY, named as candidate for exalted ruler of Glendale Lodge No. 1289.

Members of City Elks' Lodge Name Candidates for Offices for 1925

Nominations for officers for the coming year were made at the annual Past Exalted Rulers' night, held by Glendale Elks lodge last night. Gerald A. Dockeray, esteemed leading knight, was nominated for exalted ruler by Past Exalted Ruler Albert D. Pearce. There were no other nominations for the office last night.

Those nominated for the various other offices of the lodge were Esteemed leading knights, J. Murray Durham and James F. McBryde; esteemed loyal knight, Harold N. Nuzum; esquire, Gus H. Pulliam; esteemed lecturing knight, Dr. John Anderson; secretary, Walter W. Jones; treasurer, Herman Nelson; tilers, Dr. Norman C. Paine and Clifford J. Larsen; trustees for three-year term, A. R. Hildreth, Fred J. Fish and Len C. Davis; delegate to the grand lodge, Earl S. Patterson; alternate delegate, Peter L. Ferry.

Past exalted rulers of Glendale lodge who had charge of the meeting last night were Bert P. Woodard, presiding; Albert D. Pearce, Stephen C. Packer, John H. Fanset, Peter L. Ferry, James A. Apffel, Arthur H. Dibbern and Alfred H. Priest.

Only one of the present officers of the lodge declined to accept nomination to the next higher position on the list of offices. This was Jess W. Headlee, who served this year as esteemed lecturing knight.

Following the nominations short talks were given by the nominees. Under the head of good of the order, Chairman Woodard paid fitting tribute to the memory of William Hermann West, only deceased past exalted ruler of the local lodge. During the meeting original charter members of Glendale lodge and members of the original building committee were presented from the floor.

The meeting was followed by a musical program under the direction of John H. Fanset, past exalted ruler. Members of the Hollywood Ladies quartet, under the leadership of Myra Belle Vickers, rendered a number of vocal se-

GIRL FRANKLY TELLS OF 3 MURDERS

Seven-Year-Old Youngster Held After Confessing Strange Crimes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Police detectives today were investigating one of the strangest cases ever brought before the police of Calfiornia—that of Alsa Thompson, aged 7, who has confessed, the officers say, that she caused the death of her two sisters and a woman by poison and attempted to poison eight other persons. Psychiatrists say it is one of the strangest cases ever brought to their attention.

The girl was taken into custody yesterday afternoon upon request of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Platts, with whom the child boarded, after a strange substance of solution from a radio battery and ant paste was found spread over food the Platts with their infant daughter, as well as Maxine Thompson, the girl's 2-year-old sister, were about to eat.

Frankly Confesses

According to the police the girl frankly admitted the poison attempt and said she had caused the death of her two sisters by ground glass two years ago while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Thompson, were residing in Dauphin, Manitoba. She further confessed, the police claim, that she caused the death of a Mrs. Price,

CAVE CAPTIVE LOSES HOPE OF RESCUE FROM PIT

Faith Gives Way and He Awaits End; Numerous Plans for Release

CAVE CITY, Ky., Feb. 3.—Nature's silent power, dominant over all the artifices of man, still held sway this afternoon in the murk and slime of Sand cave.

One hundred and fifty feet below in the darkness and mud, lies Floyd Collins at the spot where for more than eighty hours he has seen the best engineering skill of the state pit its craft against the boulder which holds him pinioned in the torture chamber to which the cavern has been transformed.

Hope has risen and fallen, but as the hours wore away today, each minute ticked out to the accompaniment of pain, the ebb of faith and the prisoner for the first time gave away and made his first plea for death.

May Not Survive

Physicians and surgeons, gathered in the throngs outside, heard the cry and they admitted for the first time that the prayer might be answered before a rescue could be effected.

Even should Collins be rescued within a few hours, and this appears unlikely this afternoon, physicians say it is probable he would not survive the shock of his experience.

Work of cutting a new tunnel to the spot where Collins is imprisoned, as proposed by railroad engineers, had not been started at noon.

Another plan—that of using a jack in effecting a rescue—was to be tried out this afternoon.

From the score of plans submitted by engineers, watchers and persons in all parts of the country, two were weeded out this afternoon as the most feasible.

Food Discarded

The first was to widen and deepen the narrow channel leading to Collins and carry away the debris by means of a bucket brigade to the mouth of the cavern.

The second was the plan suggested earlier in the day, that of tunneling to the victim from a point on the opposite side of the mount.

It became known today that many volunteers who had entered the cave to take Collins food, never delivered it. Six thermos bottles, containing coffee, have been found cast aside in the narrow entry where the volunteers abandoned them, evidently fearful to continue the dangerous descent. Most of the food which has actually reached the prisoner has been taken by his brothers, Homer and Marshall.

BURBANK ENTERTAINS

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Feb. 3.—Miss Pauline Frederick, noted stage and screen artist, was the guest of Luther Burbank, plant wizard, at his home here today.

ENCOURAGE HOME BUYING!

The Glendale Evening News has always sought to discountenance and discourage those agencies which endeavor to draw trade away from Glendale. There was a time when Glendale was at a disadvantage as a retail center, because of the close proximity of a much larger city, with better shopping facilities than could be provided by our own merchants, with their patronage limited by our small population. Of course the big city stores made their bid for the suburban trade and got it, since there were many lines of merchandise not carried in Glendale at all and we were compelled to go elsewhere for many necessary articles and many kinds of service.

Naturally, the big city stores are still making an effort to get Glendale's business, although the time has come when there is no necessity for Glendale people to go away from home to trade.

While Glendale has grown enormously in population, area and the number of its homes in the last four or five years, it is the business establishments that show the greatest growth and change. Profits of the merchants, increased by the rapid growth in population, have been reinvested in the business in almost every instance, and this expansion has meant the development of a wonderful merchandising area, one that has often been favorably compared with the exclusive shopping district of our big neighbor city.

Now that it is not necessary to leave Glendale to buy the necessaries and the luxuries of life, The Glendale Evening News believes it is essential for the best interests of the city for Glendale people to give their trade to home merchants, not for the sake of benefiting or enriching the merchants themselves, but for the good of the whole city. Fine stores are both a necessity and an asset to a growing city and they must have trade to exist and to expand.

The growth and improvement in Glendale's business establishments have been of as much value to the city of Glendale as a whole as they have been to those individuals who own and operate them. Look back over a period of four or five years, consider the changes that have taken place in the business life of Glendale, and you cannot but realize that considerable appreciation and all our patronage are due the business men of Glendale for their public spirit and progress.

We cannot keep the advertising matter of outside concerns from coming into Glendale, but every loyal citizen should do what he can to counteract the effect of this propaganda that would take from Glendale the money of our people which is needed to build up our own institutions and to promote our own prosperity. Let every good citizen discourage any scheme for drawing trade away from Glendale.

LATEST NEWS

FIGHT PROMOTER PLEADS GUILTY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Fred Winsor, who promoted the boxing match at Culver City between Tony Fuente and Fred Fulton, and who was on trial in superior court here for conspiracy to violate the California boxing law, entered a plea of guilty when his trial was resumed here this morning, and was sentenced to pay a $750 fine. Winsor changed his plea from not guilty to guilty just as the prosecution was about to close its case against him. Tony Fuente, the boxer managed by Winsor, refused to change his plea and his trial was continued.

HOUSE FAVORS WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Approval of American entrance into the world court and a willingness on the part of the House to take action necessary to make the adherence effective were embodied in a resolution ordered favorably reported by the House foreign affairs committee. The legislation is a compromise between more direct endorsements of the world court proposed by Congressman Moore, Democrat, and Congressman Fish, Republican, of New York. It will be drafted by Representative Burton, Republican, of Ohio, and presented to the House.

ADVENTISTS TELL OF SANITARIUMS

Prominent Men of Faith In Services In Glendale Seventh-Day Church

Saturday was a specially interesting day with the Seventh-day Adventist church, corner Isabel and California avenues. In addition to the pastor, Elders Bernstein, president of the California conference, Burden, secretary of the Glendale Sanitarium, and S. Donaldson, treasurer of the conference were present and took part in the services. The place which the sanitarium work fills in the general work of the denomination was presented. Of these there are about fifty scattered over the world, five being in the State of California of which the Glendale Sanitarium is now the largest. The initial expense of erecting and equipping these institutions has always placed a burden on them, but after a few years they have become strong factors in the blessing of humanity. The same bright future for the Glendale Sanitarium was forecast by the speakers.

At the close of the service, a large number of those present in the congregation pledged to give a sum during 1925 equal to 2 per cent of their earnings for the liquidation of the obligations of the sanitarium, and it is proposed that this same program be followed each year for the next four years, thus to place the institution on a strong financial basis.

Dozen Baptisms

An after meeting was held in which Elder Parmele baptized twenty-four persons who will unite with the church at the next service, next Saturday morning.

The meeting Saturday night at 7:30 was featured by a stereopticon lecture, given by Elder Alonzo L. Baker, one of the editors of The Signs of the Times, published at Mountain View, Calif. He told of his recent tour of the holy land in company with a fellow-editor. On learning that they were editors, the secretary of the Zionist movement placed at their disposal a splendid touring car with a chauffeur, which facilitated greatly their sight seeing. Mr. Baker was not much impressed with the country for agricultural purposes, stating that only the valley of the Jordan, and the valley of Sharon present any such prospects worth while. According to Mr. Baker, the Zionist movement is not an effort to return the Jews to Palestine. They know that those Jews who reside in the United States and in the English possessions, especially, will never care to return to Palestine. But the movement is for the betterment of Jews who wish to leave the countries where they are persecuted, and for the education of Jews, under Jewish conditions, who desire to come for such training. Those who advocate any other view, Mr. Baker believes, do so through misinformation. In connection with his lecture, he showed 100 views made by his party, which illustrated his lecture.

History of Sabbath

At the service Sunday night Elder Parmele discussed the history of the Sabbath from the time of Moses to the time of Christ. He showed what the requirements were upon Israel with reference to the Sabbath. "Prohibition to build a fire," he said, "was given to a people living in a warm country, living on manna, and there was no necessity for a fire. The command 'Abide ye every man in his place,' was not of universal application, but given to those encamped in a circle around the sanctuary, so they could attend divine worship without going abroad. But, the very essense of the Sabbath is worship. It is 'A holy convocation, as expressed in Lev. 23:3, the word 'convocation' meaning religious meeting, according to Webster.

"For the violations of the Sabbath, Jerusalem was destroyed, as was predicted by Jeremiah, recorded in chapter 17, from verse 22 to the close of the chapter, and acknowledged by Nehemiah in Neh. 13: 15 to 18. After their return from Babylonian captivity, a great movement of Sabbath reform began, and though through the oppressions of the heathen many of them were slaughtered because of their Sabbath observance, as is shown in histories and apocraphal books, written after the close of the Old Testament records, yet they continued to observe it, being even required to seek refuge in caves in order to pass the day in peace and quiet. Eventually, however, a degree of peace was given them, and they then began to add requirements to Sabbath keeping which God had never ordained. They loaded it with such traditions that the day given by God to be a day of joy and blessing, became a burdensome yoke. Such was the state of affairs at the time of the first advent, and of this we will study next Sunday night."

PEOPLE CONTINUE TO SELECT CANDIDATES

Eight Persons Nominated By Residents of Glendale Have Secured Fifty Or More 'Votes'; List Grows

Glendale's gallery of possible candidates for councilmanic positions, suggested by the residents of this city through the columns of The Glendale Evening News, continues to grow, the eighth picture appearing today.

James Connor, of 1027 Glenwood road, is the possible candidate who has received more than fifty votes, and gets his picture and biography in The Glendale Evening News today. Others have reached the pinnacle and their pictures and biographies will appear from day to day.

Stephen W. Huntington, 624 North Brand boulevard, whose picture and biography appeared recently, has sent the following letter to A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News:

"Duly appreciate each and every friend who did me the honor to put my name in nomination for City Council. I also wish to express my thanks and gratification to you for the very nice and generous publicity afforded me in the columns of your esteemed newspaper."

Smith Withdraws

Marvin Smith, president of the Gibraltar Finance Corporation, 218 South Brand boulevard, has asked that his name be withdrawn from the list of possible candidates. He writes:

"I hereby ask that you remove my name from the list of nominees for City Council as I would not wish to be elected to that office. My present business relations prevent me from serving in this capacity and giving the time and consideration the office demands. I appreciate the honor of having my name mentioned as a nominee, but I feel it necessary to withdraw my name from the list."

Blank Appears Daily

Each day there appears in this newspaper a blank form on which Glendale residents are invited to write the names of citizens who they believe are fitted for service on the City Council. Five candidates are to be elected next April

When any person nominated receives fifty or more nominations, his or her picture and a brief biography will be published in The Glendale Evening News.

Five nominations is the limit any one person is permitted to make. Names of all persons nominated will be published.

The nomination blank appears on page two of today's Glendale Evening News. Make use of it at once and mail it to Nomination Editor, 139 South Brand, Glendale, California.

INDUSTRIAL ZONE ACTION SURPRISES

Calla Lily Co. Withdraws Petition to Have Its Land Classified

A stormy scene before the City Planning commission was averted last night when the Calla Lily Creamery Co. withdrew the petition to have its property at 1245 East Windsor road zoned as a commercial district. This action took the large delegation from the Southeast Glendale Home Protective association completely by surprise. The association is now waiting for the next move, if any, reports W. D. Baker, president.

All the members of the Planning commission were present at last night's meeting, which was held in the council chambers of the city hall, President T. W. Watson presiding. A number of maps were accepted. Petition for a commercial district at Pacific avenue and Kenneth road was denied.

Withdrawal of the petition for establishment of a commercial district in the vicinity of the Calla Lily Creamery Co. brings to an end a fight of two years' standing, unless a new petition is presented to the City Planning commission at some later date. This the Southeast Glendale Home Planning commission does not anticipate, according to Mr. Baker.

"I'm mum!" said Edward Paggi, president of the Calla Lily Creamery Co., when asked what his next move would be.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Feb. 3.—A sum in excess of $100 was taken in by members of the La Crescenta Valley branch of the Angeles Forest Protective association at the dance given Saturday night. Gaily colored balloons and whistles were distributed to the dancers, many of whom were from Glendale, Los Angeles and Hollywood. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Anna Aiken and C. L. Mead while the committee in charge was Harvey Bissell, George Aiken, C. L. Mead and Bob Scheuner. The next dance will be held at the La Crescenta schoolhouse. Foley's Sciot orchestra has been engaged for the affair.

Mrs. Tammas A. Bennet, who was formerly the proprietress of the La Crescenta Pharmacy, has moved into the valley again and will occupy one of the cottages in the Nettleton group on East Mayfield avenue.

Reports from the Glendale Research hospital state E. Klewer of Altura is progressing nicely from his recent operation. Mr. Klewer is in such a critical condition however no visitors are allowed to see him.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Littleton, who formerly owned the bungalow on the southwest side of Glenwood and Sycamore avenues, attended the dance given on Saturday night by the Angeles Forest Protective association.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Armstrong have moved into Glendale. However, they are retaining their property on Anderson avenue as they expect to return some time in the future.

An invitation is extended to all Masons of the La Crescenta Valley to attend the open meeting of the newly formed Masonic club. Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, of Glendale, will give a number of readings. Special musical numbers are being arranged. After the program dancing will be enjoyed.

Refreshments will form an important part of the evening's entertainment, Mark S. Collins furnishing the ice cream. Mr. Collins has also donated the use of the store room in Highway Highlands where the meetings are to be held until such time as the club will be in a position to erect their own hall. To reach the hall drive west on Michigan boulevard to Highway Highlands, first store building. The club urges every Mason to bring his wife and have a good time.

La Crescenta branch of the Los Angeles County Free library reports the following number of books loaned during the month of January: Adults 279, juvenile, 210, magazines, 76, 100 non-fiction, making a total of 665 books.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Feb. 3.—Consideration of the World Court as a means of settling international differences was the theme of a large meeting held last night at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse, sponsored by leading local organizations. President R. D. Bird of Occidental college, talked on "Events Leading to Formation of the World Court" and Judge Ira Thompson of the Los Angeles superior court spoke on "The Harding-Hughes Terms of Peace." Lloyd Galpin, national Democratic committeewoman at the recent convention in New York, spoke on "The Effects of the World Court Idea on the World."

The new officers are now in charge of the local Realty board: H. G. Warren, chairman; O. F. Kroehle, vice-chairman; E. Hildebrand, secretary and K. W. Hunt, governor.

Councilman Edwin Baker of Los Angeles has informed the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce that funds are available for resurfacing Colorado boulevard its entire length in this section, without cost to property owners.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Danielson who have been visiting Mrs. Danielson's parents at 5355 Sumner avenue, have left for Minot, North Dakota, via the Grand Canyon.

J. LaMar has returned from a trip to Portland, where he spent New Year's with his mother, who has been in ill health for some time.

George W. Orme and wife are here from Santa Margareta to spend a few days with C. R. Soults and family, and visit other friends in Eagle Rock before going farther north.

Rev. Robert McLean, D.D., of Ridge View avenue, executive head of the Mexican religious work in Southern California, is now in the Las Encinas Sanitarium at Pasadena. His health is reported impaired by over-work.

Union Pacific Booklet On Southland Is Out

Thirty thousand copies of "Southern California," 32-page illustrated booklet issued by the Union Pacific system and advertising features in the Southland, have just been issued and will be distributed to prospective patrons of the road from a hundred eastern offices. Each page of the booklet carries a half-tone cut depicting some phase of California beauty or development. Accompanying the illustrations is carefully edited descriptive material. The cover is printed in three colors and black. Subjects include snow-capped mountains above valleys of orange groves, residential street scenes in Pasadena, views of the old missions, beach resorts, Catalina island, Colorado street bridge over the Arroyo Seco, views of the Ridge route, and trout streams. The booklet has been hailed as one of the finest and most complete ever issued on Southern California, according to T. G. Peck, general passenger agent of the road with offices in Los Angeles.

For Council

JAMES CONNOR, the eighth to receive more than fifty nominations in The Glendale Evening News' nominations for City Council campaign, now being conducted. Who's next?

When The Glendale Evening News announced that it would receive nominations for city councilmen, it was stated that all who received fifty or more nominations would have their pictures published, also a brief biography. It happens that James Connor is the eighth proposed candidate to receive fifty or more nominations, so his picture appears above and following is a brief story about him.

James Connor, 1027 Glenwood road, has been a resident of Glendale for twenty years. He is a heavy property owner in this city. During his years of residence in the San Fernando valley, Mr. Connor has been engaged principally in the dairying and fruit business but is now vice-president of the North Glendale Pipe & Reservoir Co. and director of the Verdugo Canyon Water Co.

Before coming to Glendale Mr. Connor was for five years manager of the land department of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway Co., at Ensley, Ala. Mr. Connor went to Alabama from Stanford, Conn., where he was engaged in the nursery business. He was born in Antrim county, Ireland, and first came to America at the age of 17 years.

Here in Glendale, Mr. Connor has been active in many civic affairs. He is vice-president of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association and has served conspicuously in a number of organizations and on many committees representing residents of the northern part of the city.

SPOKEN PLAYS 'DEAD' FOR ROAD USE

'Liberties' Taken by N. Y. Pointed to As Reason For Big Change

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Much of the "liberty" of the stage in New York today is said to be due to the fact that productions are planned and plays brought out no longer with an eye to their fate "on the road." In other words, the restraining influence of the "provinces" is gone and managers are proceeding on the theory that New York will stand for anything.

Of course, all of the present-day liberty is explained on the ground of the "higher art." Plays that a few years ago would have shocked the sensibilities of the more advanced modernist are today enjoying profitable, if not artistic, runs on Broadway. Language and epithets which those same few years ago would have caused Anthony Comstock and other great reformers to turn over in their graves are listened to and laughed at today by the multitude. The multitude may come in large part from the provinces. It is possible the multitude would be ashamed to go to such plays in the old home town, but here in the metropolis Main street is forgotten and Broadway, with all its liberalism, is the vogue.

"Rain" was the first bold play to get away with it, and now this sensational play of religion in the tropics has had many successors, each going one step further, until no one knows just where or what the end will be.

Morose Ideas Good

To playwrights who long have wished to force their morose and perverted ideas upon the public the downfall of the drama in the provinces has been regarded as a sort of proclamation of emancipation. In the olden days managers would not produce a play which could not go upon the road. The play, therefore, had to be "written" down to the conventional ideas of the country at large. It had to be tested on Main street standards and, therefore, full freedom of thought and expression, full exploitation of passions and perversions had to be checked if not completely suffocated. It is complained by

J. C. SHERER GIVES OFFICIAL FIGURES

City Treasurer Presents Some Statistics Regarding Schools for Benefit of Those Seeking More Information

Editor The Evening News—Herewith find some statistics which our friends, the proponents of the proposed school bond issues, are quite possibly unfamiliar with, as are also the majority of the people of Glendale, including many who favor the bonds because they are told that it is "necessary." The most notable thing in the figures is the increase of the cost of maintenance of the schools in one year. This is the result of the voting of bonds, as every bond issue carries with it not only the payment of interest and principal, but largely increased maintenance costs, much of it "overhead" waste.

ACID TEST WORKS, ACTRESS GETS JOB

Girl Who Burned Legs That Were Too Beautiful Is Promised Role

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Lotus Thompson, film and stage actress of Australia, who Sunday burned her "too beautiful" legs with acid because she was tired of having film directors photograph them instead of her face, will soon be working in a serious role for which she yearned for years, it was learned today.

Harry Rapf, film executive, visited the residence of the girl, where she is confined and told her that as soon as she is able to walk again he will be glad to cast her in serious drama roles in several pictures to be made in the near future.

At Last!

"I am overcome with joy," Miss Thompson said when told of Rapf's offer. "At last I am to have my chance at real acting."

It was learned today that it had not been necessary for the girl to attempt to disfigure herself to procure a drama role, for one director said he had been searching for the actress for more than a week in order to cast her in a film where she would be required to do real acting instead of just posing her nether extremities.

The girl also received a message today from an international star who said he would be glad to give her a role in a film with him.

Hi-Y Boys In Favor of School Bond Issues

At their meeting at the First Methodist church last night, Glendale Hi-Y boys endorsed the proposed $2,400,000 school bond issues for Glendale, and pledged their assistance. Each boy was instructed to see that his parents voted for the bond. Richard Johnson, Roland Hodder and Robert Hatch, president of the club, spoke in favor of additional school facilities at the meeting. Hi-Y boys from this city will be guests of Hollywood Hi-Y club at a supper in the Movie City.

INFORMATION IS GIVEN OUT ON BONDS

Committee Issues Facts and Figures In Form of Questions, Answers

The publicity committee in charge of the campaign for the $2,400,000 school bonds submits the following to The Glendale Evening News for publication:

Economies

Question—Why should we not erect temporary quarters when the schools become overcrowded?

Answer—Because they handicap the school faculty and the pupils and they reflect discredit to the city. Furthermore, when these portable shacks are replaced with permanent buildings, as they eventually are, the old structures represent practically a total financial loss.

Question—Why should additional school sites be purchased now?

Answer—Adequate school sites must be obtained at the earliest possible moment, inasmuch as it will soon be impossible to obtain unsubdivided tracts suitably located for school purposes. Everyone here in Glendale knows how rapidly property values have increased within the last few years. Any city in Southern California that does not realize its opportunities, yes, duty, and acquire its school sites NOW, before it is too late, certainly is not showing the forethought that will save the taxpayers thousands of dollars later on.

What Will Happen If the Bonds Do Not Carry?

Question—What will happen if the bonds do not carry?

Answer—It is impossible to estimate the far-reaching damage that will result if the bonds do not carry. It will mean educational and commercial disaster to Glendale. Adequate schools are necessary to the commercial and industrial growth of the city. Capital and labor will not come to a city where children cannot be properly educated. The number of half-day sessions will be increased, and it will be necessary to erect more temporary buildings.

Question—How does the school bond election differ from a regular municipal, county or state election?

Answer—In a political election, if one party is not elected, another will be, and if one man is not elected governor, another will be. This is not so in a school bond election. There is no alternative. It is a case of SCHOOLS OR NO SCHOOLS.

Question—Will children be educated?

Answer—Children will be educated; if not in the schools, then on the streets or in the alleys. One public school is worth a dozen reform schools.

Question—If the bonds do not carry, how would it affect the direct tax?

Answer—The direct tax would

Trust Officer

LEWIS B. HOWE, who will represent the trust department of the Security bank in Glendale.

With the coming of Lewis B. Howe, assistant trust officer of the guaranty office of the Security Trust & Savings bank, the Glendale Security bank has today made its trust department directly available to Glendale people. Mr. Howe will represent the Security's trust department in Glendale, and, in addition to the rendering of trust services, he will also be the representative of the Security Co. The latter is the investment organization owned by stockholders of the bank.

According to R. F. Kitterman, vice-president and manger of the Glendale Security bank, the local bank is fortunate in the acquisition of Mr. Howe.

"Mr. Howe has been engaged in trust work for twenty years, and he is eminently fitted for his new position here," said Mr. Kitterman today. "We are proud that a man of his ability is to represent the Security's trust department in Glendale."

"Mr Howe came to Los Angeles in 1905 from Peoria, Ill., where he was born and educated. Soon after his arrival he became an assistant trust officer with the old Merchants' Bank & Trust Co. In 1912 he accepted a similar position with the German-American Bank & Trust Co., which later became the Guaranty and still later was absorbed by the Security. Mr. Howe comes to Glendale after many years of familiarity with this community and neighborhood.

PET NECESSARY

LONDON, Feb. 3.—A dog is almost as much a part of a walking costume for some English women as the gown she wears. One of the latest accessories of the walking costume therefore is a leather wristlet edged with fur, to which is attached a silver ring and swivel for the dog's chain.

AUXILIARY IN MEET GIVES REPORTS

Children's Hospital Workers Show Much Work Done; Plans Are Laid

Mrs. James H. Cunningham of 1026 Florence place, opened her home to the Glendale auxiliary of the Children's hospital for the regular meeting held yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. E. J. Morgan, presided. Minutes were read by Mrs. F. W. Kille, secretary. Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, treasurer, reported a balance of $305.43 in the treasury.

Mrs. W. W. Hamilton, who is in charge of cutting materials this month, reported fifty bottle covers completed, twenty-five gowns and five dozen small garments given out that would be completed and turned in to the auxiliary before the end of this month which closes the current year. Mrs. E. V. Bacon was requested to notify the hospital salvage department to send their truck out Wednesday to take the salvage that was collected last week.

Mrs. Kille reported that the Thursday Afternoon club had paid for an associate membership and donated a quantity of fruit and finished a number of garments, Chapter BA, P. E. O. a cash donation of $5 and a box of apples. Mrs. Morgan took great pleasure in displaying to the members a gift for the hospital that was presented through the auxiliary by Miss Laura Buckley, of a handsomely bound set of The Book-House, by Olive Beaupre Miller. It is in six volumes, and contains stories of interest, from nursery rhymes to historical sketches, and will be instructive as well as entertaining. Mrs. Morgan also reported that three dozen garments were delivered to the hospital January 15.

Committees Named

A motion was made and carried to the effect that the auxiliary purchase a brace for the hospital that will be for the use of children of the auxiliary district; and also that the auxiliary take out a life membership in the hospital organization. The president appointed the following committees: Nominating, Mesdames W. W. Hamilton, F. L. Doggett and James H. Cunningham; auditing, Mesdames J. C. McNaghton, B. F. Lhamon and S. J. Van Tine.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Kille and her son Eugene, for their work in connection with the milk bottle collections. Business houses of the city that have co-operated with this branch of the auxiliary work are: Williams Drygoods Co., Roberts &

EUROPE'S 'MORE, MORE'

A creditor is never a popular person and the United States as a creditor nation is being forced to bear the ill-will of European nations and the reputation of a Shylock because she cannot see her way clear, either for her own good or the good of the debtor nations, to cancel their obligations.

Current Opinion places considerable blame for the bitterness which has arisen over the question of foreign war debts, on this side of the water. "Irresponsible journalists and strident politicians have vied with each other in rasping the public temper," this journal says. The point is made that France, her nerves on edge after the events of the last ten years, is prone to exaggerate her own difficulties. France is economically solvent and could, without a cent of reparations, meet her foreign obligations on the very lenient terms which England and America are willing to accord her. A serious effort to do so would go far toward restoring confidence in the franc and an improved exchange would, of course, diminish the burden of the debt.

France could be brought to realize that Americans never felt themselves in the war on the same footing as the allies. Senator William E. Borah, replying to the harsh insinuations made in the French Chamber of Deputies against the United States, made the point that the allies had obtained possession of large tracts of territory formerly belonging to the central powers, through the terms of the treaty, while the United States laid no claim to territory, natural resources or indemnity. And Senator Reed of Missouri called attention to the fact that the French were facing destruction when the American army was thrown into the conflict and that the greatest benefit that France had received from the United States was "her life as a nation."

"The American people have given lavishly in recent years to suffering Europe, and many Americans begin to feel that the upshot of our giving is a Europe crying 'More, more,' a Europe that prizes our friendship for our money," says Current Opinion. "The 'beau geste' of cancellation would bring us but little return in the way of gratitude, for it would be regarded as a duty; it would make war seem less costly; it would place old and powerful peoples in the position of recipients of charity. We are willing to scale down the debts through the transparent device of lenient terms, but we are unwilling to recognize any obligation on our part to bear other people's war burdens."

COOLIDGE AND ECONOMY

Economy in government was the campaign slogan of Calvin Coolidge, the text of his message to Congress and it is the theme of his administration. A short time ago in an address to government officials the president said: "The people of this nation have not only been patient under the heavy burden of war taxation, they have been heroic. Their burden of taxation has been greatly lightened, but our fight must be for further reduction of the burden of the people. So far as it is within my power I propose to continue my efforts for economy in federal expenditures. What we have done must be considered only a beginning. We have proved that we can reduce the cost of government and I propose that this cost shall be further reduced."

It has been made clear to the people of the country that the president's campaign promise was not merely a trick to get votes. He has demonstrated in a number of ways that he means what he says when he insists that the cost of government can be lowered in the elimination of red tape and the merging of departments. The postoffice department, for instance, is going to save thousands of dollars by leaving the decorative blue stripe off mail bags to be made in the future.

The president, of course, is not responsible for our war debts nor the upkeep of the army and navy, and when we think that for the current year the government's contemplated expenditures are two dollars spent for war, either past or future, to one dollar for all other purposes, it should make us pause and think.

How discouraging it must be to try to reduce the taxes for the people by eliminating a little here and a little there, when the people countenance the barbarous institution of war that eats up two-thirds of the expenses of government.

IMMIGRATION RED TAPE

Our immigration law is deemed unjust by certain European and Asiatic peoples, but it is a measure to preserve our national integrity. However, there might be a little common sense used in the administration of the law. Every day stories come to our ears of injustice, hardship and cruelty inflicted upon immigrants by officials who take great pains to wind red tape around the immigration bureau. No doubt some of these stories are greatly exaggerated, but there must be a little foundation of truth in them.

The latest is in regard to Dr. Dora Kusheleviks of Latvia, who was told by the American consul in London, as she was sailing for the United States, that she could not bring her two-and-a-half-year-old daughter with her to this country because there was no opening in the immigration quota. So the child had to be left in London for seven months until an opening in the quota was found and the baby brought to this country in charge of the stewardess of a steamship line. It would seem that the mother, who was admitted because she belonged to a learned profession, would have waited in London until she could bring her baby with her, but circumstances may have made this impossible.

At any rate, the child should have been admitted with her mother, or the mother should have been barred because she had a dependent not permitted under the law to enter.

COURAGE AND SUCCESS

No one succeeds like the man who refuses to become discouraged. Courage, next to honor, is the greatest quality one can possess. A man of courage cannot fail, for he doesn't know when he is beaten and we are never beaten unless we think we are. Perseverance is the companion of courage, the two always go hand in hand and they form a combination before which difficulties disappear and obstacles vanish. Much talent and genius are lost to the world through lack of courage. Fear and discouragement are the greatest enemies of genius and the sure downfall of men.

MA-A-A-A!

The Temple of Business

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The Woolworth and the Equitable buildings have been called the Temples of Business.

They are really great marts of trade.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine that is building in New York has a better right to be called the Business Temple. It is a place for business to worship, to forget the cares of this world, and to think upon eternal problems.

Bishop Manning the other day said from the pulpit of this church:

"I wish that some part of this cathedral might be built by those interested in sports and recreations. I should like to see the steel men, the grocers, the clothing trades, the actors, the musicians, the artists, the writers, the physicians, the educators and the men of science all have their own distinctive part and place in it."

The great cathedrals of the thirteenth century that adorn Europe were built by the people. They received their land from the feudal lords who in that day represented the government. The merchants of the city were glad to give of their money, of their profits in trade, toward it. The stone was quarried and carved by the people of the city, and the whole community gathered in front of it on festal days.

We do not enjoy the unity of faith which that age did, but we probably have more religion. That is, our people are spiritually minded and disposed to consider the problems of life from a religious viewpoint. The people are hungry for the spiritual diet which the church provides.

All that is needed is to abate sectionalism and factionalism in the churches, and they will receive the hearty support of the community.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine is an Episcopalian edifice, backed by that sect, but it aims to be of service to all humanity. A recent contribution to it was made by a prominent Jew, and people of all faiths are uniting in its construction.

It may be possible that the cathedral is not to be the form which the religious sentiment of this age shall take. But it is fitting that that sentiment shall express itself in a beautiful building. The construction of this building calls for the co-operation of the entire community, just as its support will depend upon the extant citizenship.

Any sect has an opportunity to enlarge its usefulness and base its works upon all human need, and its endeavor to do so should meet with all encouragement.

There is plenty of money in the United States, and money that is being used for all kinds of purposes. We consume a large amount of property annually. Would it not be well to take part of our surplus and invest it in some permanently beautiful building that through the ages it might represent an abiding feeling?

Nothing recalls to us the beauty of the middle ages like their buildings. It may be true that their civilization, as has been said, was "built upon a dung heap." Many wars marred their history. But there was underlying all a sense of beauty and of purpose. The evil is passed and exists only on the written page, but the good that they did and felt has been carved in stone and erected for us in their beautiful cathedrals.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as rather an uncertain day, for while the Sun is in benefic aspect, Uranus is adverse.

One of the signs of the times will be an access of public interest on the part of millionaires who will try to understand how far their personal responsibility to the less fortunate extends.

Great benefactions are to mark 1925 and education is to receive a new sort of attention that assures a practical trend.

Promoters and organizers should benefit at this time when many important enterprises will be launched.

Interest in antiques and Oriental art of various sorts is to be marked this year when there will be education in the finer aspects of life.

Under this sway efforts that are of a dominating or commanding sort should be especially successful.

While both men and women who exercise authority are subject to the most helpful influences today, they will be subject to severe criticism.

Uranus is in an aspect supposed to encourage rather distorted views of life. Self pity will be strong under this sway.

This is not an auspicious planetary government for the best interests of aviation and accidents may be more easily brought about than in ordinary circumstances.

The position of Uranus foreshadows crises in government affairs and again Great Britain appears to be a center of changes.

Irritation among legislators and bitter disputes will mark Congress as the session progresses.

United States senators are subject to confusing and disturbing influences, it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is may meet with anxieties in the coming year, but they should be fortunate, especially if they are employes and not employers.

Children born on this day may have lives marked by many events. These subjects of Aquarius may be inclined to be capricious and critical, but they will be probably unusually brilliant.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

What is an educated man?

Ramsay MacDonald, lately prime minister of England, visited a workingman's college in London and expressed the opinion that an educated man is not a "learned man." By this he meant that he is not necessarily educated because he is learned. Nor is he an educated man simply because he is a university man, MacDonald opined.

"The educated man is a man with certain subtle spiritual qualities which make him calm in adversity, happy when alone, just in his dealings, rational and sane in the fullest meaning of that word in all the affairs of his life."

We prefer this definition of an educated man to one given by President Hopkins of Dartmouth, in a recent address:

"Such a man must have been humble in the presence of great minds and great souls, must have been simple in contacts with his fellows, and must have been indefatigable in his desire to cultivate and maintain the power of his mind and to accumulate knowledge which makes up the data of accurate reasoning."

It should be remembered that, in strictness, there is no such thing as an uneducated man. A famous biologist once wrote: "Suppose that an adult man, in full vigor of his faculties, could be suddenly placed in the world, as Adam is said to have been, and then left to do as he best might. How long would he be left uneducated? Not five minutes. Nature would begin to teach him, through the eye, the ear, the touch, the properties of objects. Pain and pleasure would be at his elbow telling him to do this, and avoid that; and by slow degrees the man would receive an education which, if narrow, would be thorough, real, and adequate to his circumstances, though there would be no extras and very few accomplishments."

Every person, then, is educated, in a sense; but the gulf between the degree of education attained by the average man, and the highest degree of education, is abysmal.

Thomas Huxley said that man has had a liberal education who has been trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with ease and pleasure all the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of;

Whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic machine, with all its parts of equal strength, and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind;

Whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature and the laws of her operations;

One who, not stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of nature or of art, to hate all vileness, and to respect others as himself.

In other words, those who take honors in nature's university, who learn the laws which govern men and things and obey them, are the really educated.

Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across)

Word 4. What relation is your father's brother to you

Word 5. A Civil war general who became president.

(Running Down)

Word 1. Opposite of old.

Word 2. A breakfast drink.

Word 3. To deal with or handle. The missing word in this sentence "You should — dumb animals with kindness."

LIGHTNING BOLT

A lightning bolt that must have been at least 140 rods wide struck near Elkader, Iowa, recently, hitting a tree on one side of the river and a house on the other at exactly the same time, but doing no further damage. Heavy storms have been frequent in that vicinity this year.

SEWER PLANS ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

Bids to Open for Work March 3; Schedule of Trains Taken Up

Plans and specifications for sections 4 to 12 of the $1,600,000 Glendale sewer system were adopted this morning by the City Council and the city clerk was instructed to advertise bids for the work, 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, March 3, being set as the date when all bids received will be opened and read before the council.

The plans and specifications adopted this morning were prepared by Burns, McDonnell & Smith, advisory engineers, and had the approval of the Sewer Advisory committee of leading citizens. The cost of this work will run up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, according to Virgil B. Stone, city manager. Work is already under way on sections 1, 2 and 3 of the sewer, comprising the main trunk line that is to connect the Los Angeles outfall sewer. Sections 4 to 12 provide interceptors and laterals.

Fire Bond Plans

The council instructed the city clerk to advertise February 26 as the date when all bids on the $60,000 fire department bonds will be opened and read.

The city manager and city attorney were instructed to address a letter to the Pacific Electric Railway Co., requesting that fifteen-minute service, discontinued at the time of the power shortage, be restored.

All protests were denied at the hearings on issuance of bonds for improvement of Sycamore Canyon road (sidewalks), Cerritos avenue and Sierra avenue, and resolutions were adopted ordering issuance of the bonds.

A resolution was adopted authorizing execution of a contract dated January 31, between the city of Glendale and the tract commonly known as Bellehurst park, and Mayor Spencer Robinson signed the contract for the city. By the terms of this contract the trustees of the tract convey to the city of Glendale all water rights of that tract, in consideration of the city extending its water system therewith and constructing, at its own cost, a 12-inch trunk line along Mountain street.

Commercial District

Hearing on establishment of a commercial district on Lake street between Ruberta and Sonora avenues, was set before the City Planning commission for February 16 and before the City Council for February 19.

The council voted to put through the Lake street improvement under the 1915 bond act, on petition of property owners.

A resolution was adopted fixing the vacation periods of city employes. A resolution was adopted granting right-of-way to the Glendale-Montrose Railway Co. for a spur track. A resolution was adopted abandoning proceedings for installation of ornamental street lights on Howard street.

An ordinance for adoption, whereby a commercial district would have been established on California avenue at Sycamore Canyon road, lost for want of a four-fifths vote, Councilmen Gilhuly and MacBain voting "no" on the measure.

An ordinance was offered establishing additional safety zones at street crossings. An ordinance was offered creating a commercial zone on Park avenue at San Fernando road.

Girl, 7, Frankly Tells Of Poisoning 3 People with whom she once lived, by administering rat poison to her.

"I guess I was just mean and liked to see them suffer," the girl is said to have declared in admitting the poisonings. In speaking of the deaths of one of her little sisters, Alsa showed only a slight trace of emotion, saying "she was so pretty—I was sorry I had given her anything."

School Record Good

The child also is said to have frankly admitted that in addition to poisoning humans she had poisoned two canaries and a cat and had taken great pleasure in watching them writhe in pain before death.

Alsa is said to be one of the smartest pupils in the second grade she attends and is said to have shown great interest in recent crimes, recently having asked Mrs. Platts to read her the daily stories of the case of Dorothy Ellingson, San Francisco matricide.

It was also learned from Mrs. Platts that on last Sunday Alsa tried to take the lives of her baby sister Maxine and Lorraine Platts, 9, by slashing their wrists with a razor blade and that two weeks ago she had put a strange combination of substances in the food of the Platts that made the entire family ill.

Symphony Orchestra In Rehearsal Tonight

J. Arthur Myers will be in charge of rehearsal tonight of Glendale Symphony orchestra at Glendale Intermediate school at 8 o'clock. Music for the Paul Revere cantata to be given February 16, will be rehearsed with soloists. The choral club met with the orchestra last night at Harvard High school.

JULIA ROBINSON, daughter of Glendale's mayor, who is preparing in Germany for an operatic career.

Miss Julia Robinson, talented soprano, and daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Robinson of 1234 East Windsor road, is finding much inspiration for her preparation for an operatic career in Germany, under the direction of Marcella Craft, well-known California operatic singer of Riverside.

In addition to studying in Munich, where her mother studied and graduated from the piano department of the Royal Conservatory, Miss Robinson is enjoying many trips through Germany, attending grand opera and being entertained by her mother's relatives. Mrs. Robinson comes from a widely-known, artistic family. Henrietta Sonntag, celebrated soprano, was her cousin, and her uncle, Joseph Fluggen, was a noted German artist. Mr. Fluggen's masterpiece "Death of the Holy Elizabeth" was exhibited in all the galleries of England and Continental Europe. A reproduction of this painting hangs in the Glendale Elks' clubhouse.

Miss Robinson's many Glendale friends will be interested in word from her. Miss Craft is most delighted with her progress and predicts for her a successful operatic career. Since they went abroad in August Miss Robinson and Miss Craft have traveled much. Miss Craft appeared as guest artist in grand opera in Berlin; in concert at Kiel; and at the Royal Opera house at Munich.

Although a native of Los Angeles, Miss Robinson is claimed by Glendale, for it was here that she attended and graduated from grammar and high schools. Before going abroad she studied with the finest vocal instructors of the southland. She plans to spend three or four more years studying in Germany.

Spoken Drama 'Dead' As Road Show Asset

William A. Brady that in thirty-four states of the union the spoken drama virtually is dead—killed by the pictures, by the radio, by high railroad fares, by high hotel rates and by the refusal of the great common people to pay the prices demanded for successful productions.

Plays formerly were held on Broadway for extended "runs" with the sole idea of making them pay handsomely on the road. Now if a play does not succeed on Broadway, it is laid away in moth balls and camphor or thrown into the discard for all time. Playwrights have gained the notion that nowadays it is necessary to shock the multitude with "strong stuff" in order to make a success. And, as strong stuff begets strong stuff, so the shockers are getting more and more putrid.

Imitate Ibsen

American playwrights are attempting to imitate Ibsen, while the "horrors" of the Grand Guignol of Paris are seized upon for Broadway use. New York's audiences are metropolitan, made up largely of travelers, of persons returned from Europe, of Main street habitues out for a good time, and a goodly smattering of the new "cult" of young persons who follow the writings of the modern realism with a worship closely akin to idolatry.

How long Broadway will stand this sort of thing the Lord only knows, but it is certain that the spoken drama is not going to re-establish itself in the provinces until a lot of the new Broadway ideas are knocked out of it.

A long run on Broadway is no longer an asset in the country. It is a liability.

Hi-Y Promises Biggest Affair on Next Monday

The Father and Son banquet to be given next Monday night at the Glendale Presbyterian church promises to be the most successful affair of its kind ever given by the Glendale Hi-Y club, according to the reports of the committees made last night at the meeting of the local club. More reservations have been made than for any of the five previous Father and Son banquets, W. F. Tower who is heading the ticket committee, said. The banquet will start at 6 o'clock instead of the usual time of 6:30 and admittance to the hall will be by ticket only. Governor Friend W. Richardson will deliver the main address. As has been the custom in past years, boys who do not have fathers will be sons to men who do not have boys of their own. A committee headed by Kenneth Lee has this phase of the work in charge. The program committee, Richard Bickenback, chairman, has its work about complete.

CHURCH DENOUNCES WOMAN'S TEACHINGS

Resolution Passed On Activities Of Margaret W. Rowen in Connecting Prophecy With Denomination

SAN JOSE, Feb. 3.—Representative leaders of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in California in a special meeting held at Mountain View, an Adventist publishing center near here, passed resolutions deploring the fact that the prediction that the world will end on Friday, February 6, made by the "so-called" prophetess, Margaret W. Rowen, of Los Angeles, should in any way be connected with the teachings of the Seventh-day Adventist church.

Editorials denouncing Mrs. Rowen and her work, published in the missionary journal "Signs of the Times," Mountain View, and in the "Review and Herald," the official church organ, Washington, D. C., were cited as evidence that the denomination has vigorously and consistently disavowed her teachings. Actions passed officially for the same purpose by the general conference with headquarters at Washington, D. C., and endorsed by Union and state organizations, were referred to.

"The impression is given," declared Rev. G. A. Roberts, Oakland, president of the California (coast) conference, "that the following of Mrs. Rowen has greatly affected the Seventh-day Adventist membership. As a matter of fact in the district over which I have supervision where there are more than 4,000 Seventh-day Adventists, our churches have excommunicated exactly twelve members because of their accepting the teachings of Mrs. Rowen."

"Rev. O. O. Bernstein, Los Angeles, gave a similar report, declaring that in the Southern California conference where is located the headquarters of the Rowen movement, and where the most propaganda has been made, less than fifty members have been gained for it from the membership of Seventh-day Adventists, which now numbers upwards of 7,000 in Southern California.

Rev. E. L. Neff, Fresno, reported that in Central California not a single Seventh-day Adventist church member had been lost because of the Rowen movement. According to reports given at this meeting, there are in California approximately 16,000 members of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination.

Seventh-day Adventists Have Not Set Date For World's End

Editor, The Evening News:—Undoubtedly quite a number of people are acquainted with the fact that about a year ago much excitement was caused by the publication in the daily papers of the startling announcement that the probation—in other words, the day of grace—of the human race would end February 6, 1924, and that the Lord Jesus would return to this earth February 6, 1925, to take His people home, as spoken of by many Bible writers including our Lord, Himself.

As the time for the fulfillment of this latter event will be next Friday and as the people who are making this prophecy are calling themselves Reformed Seventh-Day Adventists, it is only fair that the public should know what Seventh-Day Adventists believe on this point, and also that we have no sympathy whatever with such a Godless and unscriptural movement, and that we feel as sure today as we can feel after February 6, that nothing of a supernatural nature will take place at that time, unless the devil himself impersonates Christ.

Collecting Money

It seems a pity that there is no law, written or unwritten, that can take such people in charge and have their mental condition attended to at the expense of the state, and so prevent an accumulation of funds under false pretenses. To my personal knowledge, one of the followers of this false prophet put $12,000 into the enterprise about three weeks ago, and I am wondering how much she will be able to collect on February 7.

The signs that are to precede our Lord's second advent, as given by prophets and evangelists and Christ, Himself, are being fulfilled and without doubt that event so eagerly looked for by men of God in all ages is about to take place; but let us remember that we know not the day nor the hour.

The following Bible references, and also references from one of our most respected and representative writers, are the basis of our belief and, incidentally, the grounds for our confidence today, February 3, 1925; that the prophecy of Christ's Second Coming, February 6, 1925, is the statement of a false prophet.

Taken From Bible

Here are the Bible statements:

1. Of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of Heaven, but my Father only. Matt. 24:36.
2. Watch therefore; for you know not what hour your Lord will come. Matt. 24:42.
3. Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the son of man cometh. Matt. 24:44.
4. Take yet heed, watch and pray; for ye know not when the time is. Mark 13:33.
5. Watch ye therefore; for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cock crowing, or in the morning. Mark 13:35.
6. Take heed to yourselves . . . for as a snare shall it come upon all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Luke 21:34-36.

What Writers Say

Here are statements by our recognized writers:

1. "Time will never again (after 1844) be a test."
2. "There will never again be a message for the people of God that will be based on time."
3. "We are not to know the time . . . for the coming of Christ."
4. "You will not be able to say that He will come in one, two, or five years."
5. "Beware of any one who would set a time for the coming of the Lord."
6. "To set the time for Christ's coming is an evil work."
7. "God has no such message for mortal lips."
8. "The coming of the Son of man is God's mystery."
9. "Those who so presumptuously preach definite time are advancing infidelity rather than Christianity."

Calls L. A. Man Master Mind Behind Rowenite Movement

Editor The Evening News:—Dr. B. E. Fullmer, of Los Angeles, is the leader of the Rowenites, who are looking for Christ to come on February 6, and he has his office at 1112 Gower street. He is a disgruntled Seventh-day Adventist, and has been a trouble-maker in the organization for fifteen years.

When he insisted on preaching his peculiar doctrine that the United States would be the home of the saved during the millennium, and that Pilate, and others who were responsible for the death of Christ would be resurrected to live on the earth during the millennium, he had his ministerial credentials taken from him, and was ex-communicated. He has been out of the organization ever since.

Called Master Mind

He was the master-mind in back of the work of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowen, who is the prophetess of the Rowenite movement, and while they have caused calumny and reproach to be heaped upon an honest, substantial church organization, they are not in any way connected with the Seventh-day Adventists. We go no farther than any other church organization in teaching the second coming of Christ, believing the Bible that "of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but my Father only."

Please make your announcements definite enough that your readers will understand that the organized body of Seventh-day Adventists do not advocate this doctrine. Those people who are looking for Christ to come on February 6, have all been ex-communicated from the Seventh-day Adventist church. They claim to be Seventh-day Adventists, but have an organization different from ours.

Spending Millions

The real Seventh-day Adventists believe in the second coming of Christ in harmony with the Saviour's own statement found in Mark 13:32: "But of that day and hour knoweth no one, not even the angels in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father." The Adventists are spending several million dollars in 1925 for the advancement of their mission endeavors, and will send at least 139 new recruits to countries beyond the seas for the strengthening of their mission stations. In short, they are planning to follow the most extensive program ever worked out, so you can readily see that the organized forces do not have sympathy with the February 6 fanaticism.

Very sincerely yours,
W. L. BURGAN,
Secretary Press Bureau General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C.

JAP LAND BILL CAUSES STIR IN CAPITAL

Proposed Measure Intended To Exclude Foreigners Owning Oriental Land

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Ownership of land in Japan by foreigners, which is proposed in a bill to be introduced in the diet at the instance of the government, may create more diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Japan, it was learned today.

Under the provisions of the proposed bill, land ownership rights would be accorded to foreign nations on a reciprocal basis and, as some American states prohibit Japanese from owning, and in some cases from even leasing land, such a provision would be discriminatory against the United States.

Under the bill's provision, it is reported, all Americans would be barred from owning property which would be discriminatory, as there is no federal law prohibiting Japanese from owning property in this country. An amendment is projected, however, which would bar only citizens of these states which prohibit Japanese ownership.

California Affected

The Japanese embassy has no official information concerning the bill, but it was said at the embassy that if the bill passed carrying the state provision, residents of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, Alaska and the District of Columbia would be barred from owning land in Japan, as those states and territories have alien land laws prohibiting Orientals from acquiring property.

Legislation which would discriminate against citizens of some states and not others would, it is said, create a unique situation in international affairs, and would unquestionably lead to numerous complications and disputes over authentic residents and ownership.

SHOE SHOW HELPS

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 3.—Shoe production here has been greatly stimulated by the recent shoe style show. Seventy-nine factories in St. Louis in the last year produced 60,000,000 pairs of shoes and expect to better this record in 1925.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER XXXVII

"It sounds incredible," she murmured.

"It is the truth, nevertheless," Gertrude assured her. "When I disclosed myself, he was aghast. He took no pains to hide from me the fact that my presence there was utterly undesired. For some time he considered landing me at Gibraltar. That, however, would have made the matter no better from any point of view, and I suppose he realized that it would have been a brutal act. So he let me stay. He had to."

There was a pause. Gertrude seemed to be listening to the music. Suddenly she recommenced.

"Of course, the rest of the story is absurd, as well as humiliating. Why I tell it to you I really don't know. I made an idiot of myself in the usual way, and I forced Grant into the usual hopeless position. I suppose because he was in love with you, he played the Sir Galahad for some time with almost ridiculous perfection. Then one night we ran into a terrible storm. I was frightened, and Grant—he is really very kind-hearted—began to realize that he had been hurting me badly every moment of the time. I became emotional and finally desperate. I will spare you the rest of the story—but I gave Grant no chance. Afterwards I understood how hideous one-sided love can be. If I had wronged my husband I paid in the suffering of those three or four days before I could get Grant to land me at Newport. I only saw him for a few minutes at meal times and afterwards when he used to come and try to make polite conversation to me, but the whole affair was ghastly. I had done the most absurd thing a woman could possibly attempt. I tried to secure for myself the man who was in love with another woman. There were those few hours I spoke of during the storm. After that—nothing. I did not see Grant again until we met by accident on the steamer coming back to England. I had been ill in a little country place in New Hampshire and he had no idea even where I was. I wonder whether you would be very kind now and go and ask my husband to give me his arm. I think we must be somewhere near the screw. I am beginning to feel the motion."

Susan rose to her feet. Something in her expression warned Gertrude.

"My dear child!" she exclaimed, "if you say a single word of what I can see in your face I shall scream. I am an impossible person who has told you an impossible story for an impossible reason. Please do as I ask you."

Susan rose to her feet and conveyed his wife's message to the Prince. Then, for a moment, she hesitated. Two or three young men moved towards her but she waved them away.

"In a minute," she called out. "I am coming back."

She walked out on to the open part of the deck. A few yards away Grant was still seated, gazing gloomily across the sea. She drew nearer and nearer to his chair. He heard the sound of her hesitating steps and turned around. Suddenly he sprang to his feet. He could scarcely believe his eyes. She was smiling at him, a little plaintively, with just a touch of appeal about her mouth.

"I was stupid, Grant," she whispered. "Would you care to dance this?"

"Susan!" he exclaimed.

"Very stupid, indeed," she went on. "Let's have a good long dance like we used to and then do something terribly obvious—go and look at the bows or something."

He had sense enough to ask no questions, to accept what came to him. Gertrude watched them for a moment as she passed along, leaning on her husband's arm.

"Really," she remarked, "I suppose the papers are right when they call that young woman beautiful. I used to think she lacked expression."

The Prince looked at the young couple through his horn-rimmed eye-glass.

"She does very well," he agreed. "They have the looks, these young Englishwomen, and the figure—sometimes the wit. They move all the time, though, in a very narrow world."

"I suppose the stony and narrow way has its compensations," she sighed.

The Sefalonia was due in New York on Wednesday morning, and, on Tuesday night Grant and Susan sat out on deck together until almost eleven o'clock. Susan glanced at her watch reluctantly.

"If this voyage were going on any longer, Grant," she said, "I should have to tell people that we were engaged in self-defense. We really do such outrageous things. Do your know that I didn't dance with any one else tonight?"

"I know I am getting very unpopular," Grant observed, smiling, "and, curiously enough, I don't care a bit."

"Nor do I, really," she agreed. "The one thing I am glad about," he went on, "is that we are approaching a country which has civilized ideas as regards matrimonial arrangements. No putting banns up and waiting three weeks and that sort of thing."

"You don't suppose I'm going to be married over here, do you?" Susan exclaimed.

"I am hoping so," he replied patiently. "I thought a quiet little wedding in Washington would round off proceedings there—if we are any of us left alive."

"You've some very serious work to do first, Grant," she reminded him.

"Very," he assented. "So has your father. Mine may lead me into trouble, perhaps, but your father's is the greater responsibility. I don't think there is another man in the world who would be able to handle the situation he will have to handle in a few days. There is a terrible crisis closing upon us, Susan."

"The thought of it makes our little affairs seem almost unimportant, does'nt it?" she sighed.

He leaned over and kissed her daringly.

"Just for luck," he murmured.

On his way to his stateroom Grant passed the entrance to Cornelius Blunn's suite. He raised the curtain. The steward was seated outside the closed door.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Wedding Bells" is now being presented nightly by the Dobinson Players at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, with Mary Worth in the captivating role of a young divorcee and Joseph McManus as an undiplomatic bridegroom. The winsome bride-to-be is portrayed by Mary Isabelle Alpaugh. So cordial a reception did this clever comedy receive when it opened last night, that capacity houses are predicted for the balance of the week. The curtain rises nightly at 8:15 o'clock.

"Wedding Bells" is the first play offered by the Dobinson Players under the new six-day-a-week stock program. An added attraction to the presentation February 13 will be a valentine party with supper and dance after the show. Many of Glendale's younger set have already made reservations for this gala event. A jazz orchestra is announced as a special feature.

THE T. D. & L.

"Love and Glory" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Wednesday and Thursday the picture is Corinne Griffith in "Love's Wilderness."

THE GATEWAY

Today will be the last showing of Dante's "Inferno" which has been greeted with so much acclaim by Glendalians. The New York Evening Bulletin has the following to say of this great masterpiece:

"Wow, and likewise, woof. Billy Sunday, doff your velour to William Fox. Of all the devices to scare the life out of hardened sinners Dante's 'Inferno' wins the grand piano. I'll bet there wasn't a hard fisted old landlord in the Central theatre yesterday who didn't go out and lower his rents. On October 1, too.

"As everybody ought to know, Dante was an Italian poet of five or six centuries ago who paid a visit to the infernal regions, being guided by Virgil, who was quite at home in the place. Dante wrote a marvelous poem about it nearly a mile long and it was illustrated by Gustave Dore, the French artist, whose pictures held the record for horrors until Fox came along and made him look like a rotogravure section.

"As the inferno got into the movies Edmund Golding tied it to a modern story to point the moral. Virgil and Dante stroll from spot to spot and watch thousands of naked, dammed souls getting theirs in the various ingenious ways described by the poet. The photography, the spectacular settings, the arrangements of these diabolical scenes are really marvelous. As I said before they have Dore's illustrations looking like those in Fox's (not William's) book of martyrs. . . . Of course it is a dream."

THE GLENDALE

"Love and Glory" conclues today at the Glendale theatre. Wednesday and Thursday the picture is Viola Dana "In Search of a Thrill."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND MR. CAW CAW

"Have you any stale bread in the bungalow, Aunt Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily one evening, as he put on his tall, silk hat, ready to go out.

"Stale bread! The idea!" squeaked the muskrat lady. "Why do you want to eat stale bread when I have fresh?"

"I don't want to eat it myself," answered the bunny. "But I thought, if you had some, I would take the crusts out in the woods and scatter the crumbs for the birds. Stale bread is better for them than fresh."

"Oh, if that's why you want it, I think I have some stale bread," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, and she gave quite a number of pieces to Uncle Wiggily, who put them inside his hat.

"Why do you do that?" asked Baby Bunty, the little rabbit girl, who had come over to visit Nurse Jane. "Why don't you put the bread in your pocket, Uncle Wig?" She called him that for fun, you know.

"Because, Bunny, if I put the bread in my pocket, I might forget it," answered Mr. Longears. "But if it's in my hat, every time I take my hat off, to bow to the animal ladies, the bread will fall out and I will remember to feed the birds."

"Ho! Ho! That's a good trick," laughed Baby Bunty.

So with the bread in his hat and his hat on his head, out hopped the bunny gentleman, over the fields and through the woods, to look for an adventure and feed the birds.

As Mr. Longears passed beneath an old oak tree, in the top of which was a bunch of sticks and feathers, from this bunch came a sad voice crying:

Croak! Oak! Boak! Caw! Raw! Haw!"

"Oh, ho! I should know that voice," said the bunny. "Is that you, Mr. Caw Caw, the crow?" he called up.

"Yes, it is I," answered the voice and from the mass of sticks and feathers in the tree, which was his nest house, came Mr. Caw Caw, a black crow bird.

"What is the matter that you sing so sad and dolefully?" asked the bunny.

"I am hungry—that's what's the matter," said the crow. "With snow on the ground I can find nothing to eat."

"Ha. Then it is well that I brought this stale bread with me this morning," said Uncle Wiggily. Taking the crusts from his hat he scattered the crumbs on the ground. The crow flew down and picked them up, and so did some sparrows and blue jay birds.

"You have been very kind to me, Uncle Wiggily," cawed the crow, "and I hope I may return the favor."

"Pray do not mention it," politely said Mr. Longears.

"Well, I think Uncle Wiggily is going to do me a favor," suddenly called a cross voice, and out of the bushes jumped the Fuzzy Fox. "Uncle Wiggily is going to do me the favor to let me nibble his ears," barked the Fox.

"Oh, no, I'm not!" cried the bunny.

"Oh, yes, you are!" mocked the Fox. "I'm going to nibble them now!"

"Oh, no, you aren't!" croaked Mr. Caw Caw. And with that the strong black crow seized the Fox by his tail and pulled so hard as never was.

"Zizzie izzie!" barked the Fox. "Ouch! Let go!" But the crow gentleman wouldn't let go, and kept on pulling the tail of the Fox until the bad chap pulled himself loose. And he pulled out a lot of the hairs of his tail, too, before he ran off to his den.

So the Fox didn't nibble the bunny's ears and the crow was glad he had been able to do the rabbit a favor and the rabbit was glad he had fed bread to Mr. Caw Caw. So all were happy except the Fox.

And if the fire shovel doesn't get stuck in a snow drift coming from the movies and catch cold in its handle, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Johnny's tail.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

REDUCING BY CHEWING

The term "Fletcherizing" is applied to thorough mastication of food. It is termed thus in honor of Horace Fletcher who demonstrated the importance of thorough mastication on himself and others, and who wrote a book on the subject which was widely read.

Fletcher is not the only one who has emphasized the importance of thorough mastication. Kellogg of Battle Creek has been emphasizing it for over 50 years or so and several of the older writers, among them Brillat-Savarin, Beaumont and Sir Andrew Clark, physician to Queen Victoria, have also done so. Sir Andrew used to say that since the mouth has 32 teeth, every mouthful should have 32 bites. It used to be popularly supposed that Gladstone owed his physical virility to chewing 40 times on every morsel he put into his mouth.

However, it is due to Fletcher that the importance of mastication became so thoronghly well known. Fletcher found himself in middle age considerably overweight and under par in health in many ways. Apparently, by the simple application of the rule of thorough mastication of every morsel of food, he reduced his weight and improved his health to such an extent that he was able to outdo young college athletes in some competitive physical tests.

One of the things Fletcher demonstrated in his practice of thorough mastication was that his intake of all foods was considerably lessened and especially his intake of protein. It was through his interest and instigation that Professor Chittenden of Yale undertook his historic research to determine the minimum protein requirements of man. The result of this experiment, really started by Fletcher, showed that the protein needs were not so high as had been commonly thought. (I'll go into this phase of the subject in another paper.)

Among the other advantages of thorough mastication that Fletcher demonstrated was that after a while the relish for condiments such as mustard, pepper and other such things, and alcoholic stimulants, was lessened, and one would more instinctively choose the foods needed for the body in proper amounts and proportions.

It is thought, however, that Fletcher himself, although he lived to be 70 years of age, might have had a much longer life had he not carried his belief in thorough mastication to the extreme. That is, he believed that one should masticate every morsel of food so thoroughly that all taste is abstracted from it and that any residue left should be discarded. This resulted in a contracture of his intestinal tract and a marked constipation, and according to Kellogg, his chronic auto-intoxication was what lowered his resistance so that he was not able to combat the pneumonia which caused his death.

We believe that, with an intestinal tract twenty-five to thirty feet long, Nature intends that there shall be a goodly amount of bulk, and while we know that thorough mastication is one of the requisites for good digestion and good absorption, we believe that it should not be carried to the extreme of discarding the fibrous part of the food. In fact, we believe and teach that the average person needs more of the fibrous part of the food than he ordinarily takes.

I am including this paper in our series on reducing because thorough mastication is one of the most efficient means for preventing overeating. What we want to do, above all things, in preventing and during overweight, is to prevent overeating. With thorough mastication, considerably less food is needed to satisfy the hunger. Overweight people are notoriously rapid eaters.

A good plan for those who are in the habit of eating rapidly and not chewing thoroughly, is to take small mouthfuls and not to put any more on the fork or any other implement that is being used, until that mouthful has been liquified and swallowed. That will slow down your speed considerably. Try it.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Elderly T.: There is no harm in using water on the face if you also use a cream or an oil massage. With most elderly persons the oils in the system are being absorbed and the complexion must be supplied with oil after it has been depleted of it through frequent bathing.

Esther Jane: In the matter of taking acids every person differs. Some people need plenty of acid fruit while others cannot assimilate it at all. Even if acid fruit agrees with you, you should not depend upon it to bring your weight down to normal. It would be better for you to eliminate a portion of some of the fat producing foods, such as potatoes, white bread, rich pastries, fat meats, and sweets.

Mrs. John T. D.: There is no reason why your hands should be coarsened through doing housework. Wear rubber gloves when immersing hands for a long time, and the loose washable canvas gloves when you are cleaning the house or handling the work of the fires. Rub plenty of oil into your nails at night, and do not neglect to manicure just as you did before you did this kind of work. The purpose of the orange wood stick is to push back the cuticle around the nail.

Millie J.: The only virtue there is in brushing the hair is to help keep it clean and to equalize the secretions over the full length of the hair.

Ida L.: When the skin of the throat is much darker than the rest of the complexion it shows there is a sluggish liver and usually poor elimination. If you cannot correct this through the diet it is best to consult the doctor. Local treatment will be of some service as it will improve the circulation and clear the pores, but you must correct the trouble in your system before your skin loses that brownish shade. There is nothing to do about the dimple in your chin. Dimples are always so attractive I wonder why you object to them.

Pauline F.: A fine quality of olive oil makes a good substitute for a high grade cream.

Inexperienced Girl: Most dressing table articles are kept in a drawer rather than on a table. The comb and brush should not be left where they pick up the dust that flies about, and they, too, should go into the drawer. The mirror, the powder jar, the manicure implements, one or two small boxes for pomades, and perhaps a pair of quaint bottles to hold perfumes, should be all necessary for the dresser.

Tomorrow: Bath Powers

Young Housekeeper-Reader — "What is a 'Floating Opal?' I want to give a friend a wedding gift and wondered where I could get one of these new gems?"

Answer—A Floating Opal is the new stone which has just been invented. It consists of a small glass globe filled with glycerine, in which tiny bits of real opals are floating about. It is very beautiful, and I should think that you could get one from any large jewelry store, or that they could order one for you. I believe that if one breaks the globe containing the glycerine one can buy a new globe (of course one must save the opal-bits that were in the old globe to put into the new one).

Knitter—"On December 11 you published directions for crocheting a man's golf vest but failed to mention the size."

Answer—I am sorry that I made this error. It was size 38.

Mrs. H. T.—"How is an enamel-top range with nickel trimmings to be kept clean?"

Answer—Wash with luke-warm soap suds and then rinse with clear water. Now and then a little kerosene will help to remove excess grease (when fire is out). The nickel parts can be kept bright with hot, soapy water, but if very discolored may need rubbing with a paste of whiting and water (or any fine scourer).

Mrs. B.—"In all deep-fat frying recipes directions are given for 'draining the cooked food on crumpled brown paper.' Surely this does not mean ordinary wrapping paper? I should not consider that sanitary! Is there some special kind of brown paper sold for the purpose?"

Answer—I am afraid that most of us use ordinary wrapping paper! Of course we try to have it as new as possible (for this can be bought at a hardware store). But if you do not like the idea, you can buy a roll of sanitary hand-towel paper such as public lavatories use, and crumple this to drain your fried foods on. It is thick and absorbent and will be even more efficacious than crumpled wrapping paper.

Mrs. E. M.—"What can I make at home to clean my silver with?"

Answer — Home-made Silver Polish—Cut a bar of good white soap into small pieces, add a little water to it, and heat slowly till the soap is dissolved. When cool it will be like jelly. To this add enough whitening to make a creamy paste. This will keep indefinitely in any jar with a screw-top.

Tomorrow—New House Furnishing Ideas

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. Dr. Otey Says:

Germs are an indication of neglect and decay, just as rats and body vermin are symbolic of filth. Don't allow stagnant pools, germ-breeding swamps in the blood stream to invite microscopic vermin of the body called "germs" to propagate therein. Let Osteopathy remove the cause and renew your vitality.

The added health that Osteopathy gives you is like the additional service and sense of security you get from using oversize tires on your car.

In Osteopathy you do not forfeit in one organ what you gain in another.

You do not ruin the stomach to get the liver to work.

You do not paralyze the entire nervous system to stop a headache.

You do not risk losing all your teeth by salivation to cure malaria.

You get well all over.

Our past record for painstaking thoroughness is your guarantee of careful, considerate attention.

Treatments are never rough, seldom severe, always soothing.

Officers Guests

Officers of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Mark's Episcopal church for the year 1924 and 1925 were honored guests last night at the home of Mrs. Philip K. Kemp, branch president, at her home, 329 West Milford street. Seven tables were arranged for progressive hearts. Miss Louise Ayala won the prize and Miss Cyrinthia Terry consolation prize. The surprise of the evening was the presenting of an electric grill to Miss Rowene Zaun, who is soon to be married to Milton Perrin, of Los Angeles. Refreshments were served at the card tables by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Coppard. Bowls of white and pink carnations were artistically arranged for decorations. Those attending the party were: Misses Rowene Zaun, Ethel Read, Louise Ayala, Esther Veitch, Beena Jensen, Muriel Gambrill, Margaret and Georgina Campbell, Ethel Clay, Grace Arthur, Lillian and Alice Hinson, Leola Martin, Grace Crampton, Marie and Frances Powers, Mabel Ebarts, Elizabeth Stevens, Freda Gass, Gracie Manuel, Cyrinthia Terry, Charlotte Siedel and Alma Gaulrapp, Mrs. Katherine Hatch, Mrs. Annette Powers, Mrs. J. J. Gaulrapp, Mrs. Coppard and Mrs. Kemp. The meeting next Monday night will feature the educational program at the Guild hall.

A business meeting of the Pung Chow Mah Jongg club was held last night in the home of Mrs. Earle C. Pendroy, 1524 North Pacific avenue. Mrs. James A. Apffel, president, presided at the meeting, when members decided to change the club to a bridge club. Plans for the annual party for their husbands were made, but no definite date set for the affair. Light refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The club will meet with Mrs. James Apffel at 347 North Maryland avenue next Monday night, when bridge will be played.

BASEBALL SQUADS OUT TO PRACTICE

Dynamiters Getting Ready For Season With Coach Wolfe In Charge

By ROSS RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

With over thirty aspirants out already, baseball practice at Glendale High is progressing rapidly under the supervision of Coach Eugene Wolfe, who is being aided for the time being by "Lefty" Herman, Glendale boy, and former king of swat in the Southern Baseball association, who goes to Seattle this year.

The boys have just completed scraping the diamond and expect to soon have it in first-class shape. Plans are rapidly being finished for the erection of a first-class backstop which will cost in the neighborhood of $125.

George Laas, last year's batboy, who has obtained quite a knowledge of handling a baseball team, has been selected by Coach Wolfe as the baseball manager for the coming season.

Lettermen Out

Although basketball is still the king of sports in the high schools a bunch of good material has turned out for the pelota workouts. Charley Smith and "Lefty" Brooke, last year's lettermen pitchers, are out and are now shooting the pill over the pan with old-time pepper. Smith was dependable last year and ought to round into a first-class chucker by the opening of the 1925 schedule. Jesse Herman, pitcher on the 1924 scrub team, is also out for the box position. Although Jesse is small he has the stuff and the makings of a good slabsman.

Timber for catcher is certainly not lacking. Even now five men are out for this difficult position. Stewart, Potts, Mahanna, Albert and Marion, all of whom hope some day to become full-fledged backstops are working hard to get the berth and out of this quintet Wolfe will probably be able to find some one to capably fulfill the duties of being the pitcher's target. Elmer Muff, who will be out later, is also a good backstop but his ability will probably be needed around second base so Wolfe hopes to develop a catcher so that he will be able to strengthen his infield.

Harold "Tiny" Falter and Arthur Hudson are the two hopefuls out to fill the first base position which was left vacant by the graduation of Leslie "Scotty" Lavelle. Both Hudson and Falter look good and between the two they should be able to guard the first sack in first-class manner.

Prospects Good

Ray Doll and Homer Reed are contesting the keystone position and are prepared themselves to give Elmer Muff a run for his money when he appears for practice. Earl Wooley and Charley Oaks look good at shortstop and likewise will give Johnny Lovell a real battle for that position. Eugene Drury, James Sargent and Johnny Needham are those out for third base.

The rest of the squad is, as you have already guessed, out for a garden berth. Composing this angry mob are no less than twelve or fifteen would-be's who hope to pull down a permanent position despite the opposition they will get when some of the regulars come out.

Summing it all up it looks like a real year for Glendale high baseball. Coach Wolfe has the advantage of early practice under good conditions, plenty of good material, and several lettermen back from last year's outfit.

BOWLING SCORES

Pitchers Forcing Change

"Choke" hitters are holding their own with free swingers, but pitchers have a habit of sending 'em over the plate in such a manner that even "choke" hitters have a hard time placing their hits. All of which indicates a radical change in batting styles for the coming season.

SCOTT

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

The season of 1924 was the best the pitchers in baseball have enjoyed since the advent of home run hitting as a popular pastime.

The circuit-clouting craze, with Babe Ruth as its chief booster, altered batting as a science. In their efforts to stretch their hits to extra-base wallops batters lengthened the grip on their clubs. The free-swinging hitters were in their glory. Those who normally choked their bats slipped their hands down the handles slowly but surely, loosened their elbows and joined the "natural" boys. There were just enough exceptions to prove the rule.

The success of the pitchers last season, however, in checking noticeably the murderous attack of the ball sockers may bring a reversion to the old and more scientific style again, however. It might be well to point out that some of the men who held to their batting averages last year in the big show were "choke" hitters who held to their style through the "freebooter" period or adopted that style despite the cry for the round-house batters.

Joe Judge of the Senators smacked the horsehide around for the neat average of .324 with a choked style. Maurice Archdeacon, fleet-footed youngster with the White Sox, rang up a .319 average with a chopping swing.

Whitey Witt, tow-headed Yankee who is destined to move on this year, came within three points of the .300 mark.

Wee Willie Keeler, the man who chopped his way in the hall of baseball immortals with his choked bat, demonstrated what can be done with that style. No player has ever equalled his record. Keeler slammed out more than 200 safe hits for eight consecutive seasons. His yearly average never went below .355—his eighth year's mark. One year he hit .432. His grand average for the eight campaigns was .383.

He hit safely in 44 consecutive games in 1897, going from April 22 to June 18 without going hitless a game.

Keeler, to use his own expression, "hit 'em where they ain't." He dropped them over the infielders' heads in the short outfields, where the outfielders, playing out, found themselves looking foolish.

Archdeacon, Witt, Judge and Dudley Lee of the Red Sox are the more prominent choke hitters among the lefthanded batters. Bill Wambsganss, a right-hand batter, is a "choke" artist. He has never been a formidable batter but is a timely one and an expert at the bunting game.

Another big year for the pitchers—and there is every reason to indicate that the hurlers will have another big one—may see more batters passing up the slugging tactics to collect more basehits, or at the request of managers who showed a tendency last season to revive base running and "inside" baseball.

EXPORT TRADE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—Exports to the Orient and South America from this port are expected to exceed $200,000,000 this year. Export trade here gained 42 per cent since 1921.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Baseball men are puzzled, in view of the developments in the criminal investigation of the Jimmy O'Connell-Cozy Dolan bribery case, as to whether O'Connell gave Commissioner Landis more of a statement than appears in the evidence the Commissioner made public. It is readily conceded that there might have been certain discoveries which Judge Landis might have felt he should withhold until he was certain he had ended the case.

Reference is made by the district attorneys office here to a statement said to have been made by O'Connell, but there is no signed statement from him in the testimony that has been produced to date. Was there a statement, or was the transcript of the commissioner's examination accepted as a statement by the principal offender?

There is no doubt of the sincerity of the baseball men in the National league and the advisory council, as they are giving all the assistance they can toward probing further into the affair. To date the district attorneys office has said that nothing further has developed than was unearthed in the commissioners' investigation. And the baseball authorities seem to be of the opinion that the district attorney will have a hard time getting more out of the affair than already has been dug up.

To do so, it would be necessary to obtain more information from O'Connell or Dolan, or both. It seems out of the question to do that if the two disqualified players stick to their present attitude.

There are members of the American league who are becoming more and more dissatisfied daily with the outcome of the joint meeting of the major leagues at Chicago last December. At least two of the club owners are resentful of the attitude in which they maintained they are left after the disciplining of their president.

One of the American owners who had been thinking for the last month of what took place, says it is the last time the baseball politicians are going to use his vote to make his league look "like a minor organization." It is his contention that all which occurred at Chicago was simply the result of the attempt of the National league to gain prestige at the expense of the American league and to offset some of the formers' troubles.

Should that prove to be the case, it would not bother the fans greatly, because they have found that the greater the rivalry between the major organizations, the better baseball they get as a rule. However, this atitude on the part of an American league owner is interesting because it bears out the prediction made after the Chicago meeting that it would be only a short time before the American league owners, after thinking things over, would begin to repent the action forced upon them.

First prize will be six golf balls, donated by Cornwell & Kelty, and valued at $5. Other prizes will be a division of the entry fees. The entry list is closed.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Regardless of whether his retirement is on the plumb-bob level or is merely an expression of the prevailing mode in cauliflower ears, Jack Dempsey has fought his last battle under the management of Jack Kearns.

This statement was made today, by way of confirmation of the reported estrangement between the pair, by a man distinctly on the "inside" of nearly every big bout in this country.

"That part of the thing is 'in'," he declared. "You can bet your last cent on it. Unless something is done to bring them together, Dempsey and Kearns will go their separate ways from now on."

He then went on to elaborate upon his statement by telling of an incident that ocurred when the champion and his manager were last in the east. Dempsey, he said, was on his way past a famous restaurant in town when one of his party suggested going inside.

"Kearns is there," he explained. The champion's reply was to turn on his heels and walk in the opposite direction, after making a few unflattering remarks about his manager, according to the story. It is not believed that the gesture was the result of a passing grievance. Dempsey is not given to showing his resentment over trivial or temporary differences with members of his official family.

Further significance is given the statement by the tone of Dempsey's recent announcement of his withdrawal from the ring. On that occasion, he made reference to Kearns as merely a business partner, never a friend. That remark came as a shock to those who have witnessed their amicable relations of nearly ten years' standing.

Furthermore, no retraction followed the implied slight. Dempsey later saw fit to repudiate his decision in part, by suggesting that he might make one or more appearances in the ring, but he said nothing about Kearns nor did their stories bear the slightest suggestion of team work. While Dempsey was formally declaring himself for the simple life, Kearns steadfastly maintained that the thing was the "bunk." Their respective statements hardly smacked of mutual understanding.

If Dempsey's retirement was merely a publicity dodge, Kearns would have been "yessing" him yet.

Then, also, there is a report of their hotel property in Los Angeles being up for sale. Neither of them are in immediate need of money, therefore the action in qustion is interpreted as a desire to divorce their interests.

HULI TRUCKS WIN FROM CREAMERY

Milkmen Take Lead Second Quarter But Lose Game As Play Closes

Coming from behind in the second quarter, holding their lead in the third quarter and being nosed out in the last few seconds of play, the Calla Lily team lost to the Huli Trucks, 28 to 25 last night in a City league basketball game played at the Harvard High school gym. The game was marked by fast playing. Spectacular shots and desperate chances.

The victory for the Huli Trucks results in the creamery men being forced down to third place with a percentage of .333, while the truckmen remain in the lead with a clean slate. The Huli Trucks have defeated the Standard Oil, Christian church and Calla Lily teams, while the Calla Lily crew has lost to the truckmen and Radios, and won from the Methodist Episcopal church.

At the first quarter the count stood, Huli Trucks, 12; Calla Lily, 7. Shingledecker, left forward for the creamerymen, tied the count with a free throw, followed by two baskets. Fanset, right forward for the truckmen, put his team in the lead with a basket shot from one corner of the court. Hyatt tied the count with a spectacular shot from the midfloor. Fanset again put his team to the fore with a basket and Doll strengthened the lead by caging a pretty shot.

Leading At Half

With only a few minutes to go in the second quarter, the milkmen started to overcome a four-point lead. Hyatt caged one, and was followed by Avery, tying the count. Talbort sunk a perfect shot from near the sideline back of midcourt. The half ended Huli Trucks, 18; Calla Lily, 20.

Avery caged two shots soon after the third quarter opened, giving the milkmen a sixpoint lead, 24 to 18. Jensen cut the lead down with a basket, and Fanset made a free shot as the quarter ended, Huli Trucks, 21; Calla Lily, 24.

The truckmen crept up on the milkmen during the early minutes of the fourth quarter when Doll made a free throw. Fanset tied the count, 24 all, with two free throws, the milkmen committing fouls in an effort to play "frozen ball" while in the lead. Avery gave the creamery crew a one-point lead with a free throw, but Wilde scored the winning points for the truckmen when he shot his only basket from the center of the floor. Fanset dropped the casaba inside the hoop just as the game ended. The final score was: Huli Trucks, 28; Calla Lily, 25.

How They Scored

Fanset was high point man of the game, getting sixteen points. Hyatt was second with eight markers. The lineup:

Huli Trucks (28);	Calla Lily (25)
Fanset (16)	R.F.	Hyatt (8)
Doll (6)	L.F.	Shingledecker (6)
Jensen (4)	C.	Talbort (4)
Wilson	R.G.	Randall
Wilde (2)	L.G.	Avery (7)

Score by quarters—

Huli Trucks	12	6	3	7—28
Calla Lily	7	13	4	1—25

Tonight's battle will bring together the Legion team and the Huli Trucks. The service men played their initial game of the season last Thursday night, losing to the Methodist Episcopal church, 29 to 22 in a game that was filled with thrills. The legionnaires have put in some time practicing since last week and are ready to give the league leaders a real tussle.

Tomorrow night the Christian church and Standard Oils tangle at Harvard High school gym. Both teams have two defeats and no victories to their credit and the game will result in one of the teams moving out of the cellar.

On the same night the Faculty Five will meet the Calla Lily team in a practice game. Members of the Faculty Five are Coaches Hayhurst, Butterfield, Hicks, Pierce and Wolfe. The Faculty Five was organized for the express purpose of giving City league teams practice.

Canned peeled tomatoes and tomato paste are among the products of Italy.

'Kid' Dugan Will Make Coast Debut Friday

A brand-new flyweight has invaded the sunny end of California from the wilds of Kansas City. His name is "Kid" Dugan, and he dropped in on Los Angeles and environs with a reputation of having scored twenty-two sleep producers out of fifty fusses in the roped arena. The Kid lost only one of these fifty bouts, on a decision. He's never been given that funny "feel" that creeps over one's body when one gets the right punch on the right button.

The Kid is going to get a chance Friday night to show Los Angeles in general and Hollywood picture sheiks in particular just what manner of fighter he is. He gets the curtain raiser position on the card featured by Spud Meyers and "Ace" Hudkins in the spotlight position.

Kid Dugan holds another enviable reputation. He has posed for some of the most famous sculptors. The Kid proves this by written testimonials from some of 'em.

DRIVER TELLS OF RACE IN BLIZZARD

Man Who Drove Final Lap With Serum for Nome Credits Canine

By GUNNAR KASSEN
For International News Service.

The story of the driver of the dog team in the final lap of the race for humanity's sake from Nenana to diphtheria stricken Nome. As told to International News Service. Copyright, 1925.

NOME, Feb. 3.—My big black dog Balto must get all the credit as far as my part of the journey goes.

In the long trek across the snow-covered and blizzardy trail it was Balto's eyes that saw when human eyes had failed.

Balto is the leader of my thirteen black Siberian malamutes and I do not think any other leader in Alaska could have brought me in safely. It was my dog's intelligence and bravery that won in the face of the greatest odds.

I wish I could tell you the story of the whole race, but I am so sleepy.

Leonard Seppella finished his run 120 miles from Nome, making a forty-mile mush near Bonanza to deliver the packet of serum to Olson of Bluff at Golovin. Olson gave the package to me at Bluff and my leg of the race was on.

I left Bluff at 10 p. m. Sunday night.

Blizzard All Way

It was a storm all right.

I took four hours and 20 minutes for the first twenty miles. I had to travel in a fierce storm, a regular blizzard.

There was eight feet of snow on the ground at one point.

Then, how dark! I passed Sollmon's roadhouse at Safety without seeing it. I could not see the trail or the trail marks. Just Balto was there, going up and down, up and down.

I was supposed to meet Ed Rohn, another relay man there, but it was so dark I missed him and so decided to continue on to Nome. I thought it best—better than to cause delay looking for him and changing dog harness.

Now the blizzard was abating somewhat but still I could not see.

I decided to trust to fate and Balto.

I was sure he would come through.

He did. But my dogs were just in the last act. To the other drivers and dogs most credit is due. They had the harder mush, more difficulties.

And for them I know I can say, as for myself—we were glad to serve.

Fear Serum Robbed of Efficiency by Freezing

to Nome by airplane. They said carrying in the plane would prevent its freezing and pointed out that even if the 300,000 units brought by dog teams proved unharmed, new supplies of the serum were needed.

Gunnar Kassen, the musher who brought in the precious serum, said that he made every effort to prevent freezing of the anti-toxin, he, as well as the other drivers, wrapping it on the dash over the frozen trail, in a sleeping bag, government mail bag and two heavy robes. But temperatures running as low as 45 and 50 degrees below zero prevailed on portions of the trip, he said.

Not Downhearted

But despite reports that the new serum may prove useless and that the epidemic was bringing new cases, Nome faced its plague with a strong heart and for a time forgot its sufferers to pay tribute to the men who made the fight against death. Kassen, the musher who made the final lap of the more than 600-mile trek, and his thirteen black Siberian dogs were the heroes of the camp.

None was happier in Nome than Kassen's bride, formerly Miss Anna Carlson. She was among the first to greet the musher after his arrival.

Kassen is employed by the Hammon Consolidated Gold Fields Co. He is a friend and associate of Leonard Seppella, the champion musher, and with him has made many perilous treks on the trail.

None of the containers holding the serum was broken, Dr. Welch said. He planned to thaw out the serum gradually.

Regular Business Meet Of Realtors Tomorrow

The Glendale Realty board will hold its regular business meeting tomorrow noon at the Harriett Mae tea room. There will be no speaker on the program for tomorrow, the entire session being devoted to matters of business. Tomorrow night, realtors will join other Glendalians in attending the Mission Play at San Gabriel.

BUYING LUMBER

SEATTLE, Feb. 3.—Australian buyers are anxious to contract for lumber for delivery as late as August but producers are chary of such orders owing to uncertainty as to prices and freight rates. Japanese demand is dull.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Now that the dog teams have triumphed and the diphtheria antitoxin has been delivered in Nome, Alaska, after an epocha' record-breaking race over the countless miles of arctic snows, one cannot help but wonder whether it will accomplish the purpose.

It is to be hoped the 600 United States citizens and the hundreds more of Eskimaux are successfully treated, and if needs be an airplane should be dispatched to the town with more medical supplies. Nothing is too good for those who guard the outposts of our civilization.

What words of cheer the radio reports telling of the mushing dogs and intrepid drivers making speed never known before! The people of Nome got those reports through the air as easily as the people of Glendale. It is strange how electric currents, passing through space, unite the hearts of humanity in common need.

News is now being shuttled across the United States by machines at the rate of 120 words a minute—a speed which few typists can maintain for more than an hour; and a speed which few four or five average news writers topmost production would equal, if all facts were available.

News also is flashed by radio, as well tapped off over the humanly operated telegraph wires. And while the human element is essential in all successful operations of news wires, particularly in cases of emergency, there is coming a day when the great bulk of news copy will be "talked" directly into microphones, which in turn will tell it to dictaphones from which typists will transcribe the voice.

And it is not at all impossible to see typesetting machines in one town controlling those a thousand miles away, for not only do telegraph wires operate tapes, but monotypes likewise set copy from a roll not dissimilar to a player piano.

If you were a resident of Los Angeles, or conducted a business in the metropolis in which telephones are used, you would appreciate, as many Glendale people do today, the value of telephone service. The rates have been increased, in the view of the writer, although this is said to be a debatable subject.

At any rate, for the short month of February this writer is paying 37 per cent more, unless a mistake has been made in the service charge. This boost in rates should prove beneficial to the service, to say the least, and certainly we will handle the telephone more respectfully since it costs 50 cents every working day!

Glendale phone users may consider themselves fortunate not to be located in the Montebello or Culver City areas, also. They are privileged to talk with Los Angeles for $17 per month.

No doubt their words will be well chosen when speaking of telephone rates to members of the State Railroad commission.

Information Is Given Out on School Bonds

have to be increased to the utmost limit, and even this would be wholly inadequate to meet the housing needs.

Transportation Expenses Big Item In School Work

Edward D. Knuchell has written a letter to the editor of The Glendale Evening News relative to the proposed school bond issue. He says:

"There now have also been published the statements of both school boards covering Glendale's school situation and pointing out the necessity of voting for the school bonds on February 17.

"All those who have confidence in the wisdom of the personnel of the school board will follow their recommendation and vote for the bonds. Those wishing to follow their own judgment can verify the facts submitted and do their own figuring.

"I can see how Congress may challenge the judgment of a secretary of the navy or a secretary of the war department, if they have never been through Annapolis or West Point, and are officials who have been selected and appointed by the president. The members of our school boards, however, have all gone to school and are the chosen representatives of the voters of Glendale and, I believe, receive no remuneration for their services.

"If I were too busy a man to post myself on the details of Glendale's school situation, as many business men are, I would most certainly follow the advice of these two school boards.

Transportation Expense

"However, I am the father of four children in grammar school. They will soon leave their school, which teaches up to the sixth only, and will then have to travel on the street car to the Wilson Intermediate school, a distance of three miles. The carfare is $2.48 for forty-six rides, or 11 cents per day per child, making for the four children 44 cents per day, and for 170 school days a total outlay of $74.80 per year for transportation alone. The school does not pay this. The grammar school bonds will increase the tax on my home and one lot approximately $3 per year.

"When my four children are ready for high school, they will have to travel four miles each way, and the carfare for each will be $2.99 for forty-six rides, or 13 cents per day per child, making for the four children a total of $88.40 per year. The school does not pay this. The high school bonds will increase the tax on my home and one lot approximately $2.40 per year. Is it necessary to ask how I will vote?

Get-Together Spirit

"When you talk about elementary children traveling six miles and high school pupils traveling eight miles a day, and there are others within the city of Glendale who have still farther to travel, does it not sound more like conditions prevailing in a rural district than in a city boasting of a population of 55,000?

"However, there is something in Glendale we need even more than adequate school facilities, and for it I would be willing to sacrifice the successful carrying of the school bonds—and that is a get-together spirit of all individuals and factions.

"A leader on the east side, at the time of the recent civic center campaign, gave assurances that his people would vote for more and better schools for the other fast growing parts of Glendale. What could do more for Glendale at this time than for all of us to work in harmony on such a proposition as the present school bonds, which are in the interests of our children—the ones on whom the future welfare of Glendale depends? It is a golden opportunity for each and every one of us to get together."

CLOSE RADIO FUND FOR CITY FIREMEN

Contributions to be Turned Over To Purchasing Committee Tomorrow; Citizens Respond to Appeal

The radio fund, donated by the readers of The Glendale Evening News, to purchase and install radio receiving sets in each of the four fire stations in Glendale, closed today with sufficient funds to accomplish the purpose. The goal has been reached, thanks to the noble response of Glendalians.

Tomorrow the fund will be turned over to the members of the purchasing committee, composed of presidents of various service clubs in Glendale, and the sets will be secured.

The donations ranged from 10 cents to $15 and came from all classes of persons and business firms who believed in making the long hours the firemen spend in waiting duty's call a little more brighter. There were seventy-eight donations.

Offers Reduction

In addition to the cash donations, there were offers from firms and individuals. William G. Bode, manager of the Glendale Phonograph Co., 109 North Brand boulevard, offered a reduction of $25 on any set purchased from his firm for the firemen. Budwig Radio shop, California street and Brand boulevard, offered a set of "B" batteries for one set.

The Glendale Evening News takes this opportunity to thank those who donated to the fund. The idea originated with a reader of The Glendale Evening News, and at this reader's suggestion the fund was started.

Contributors who have not mailed their checks to The Glendale Evening News for the amounts they signified they would give, are asked to send their checks today in order that the committee may be given the entire amount subscribed tomorrow.

'DREAM PICTURES' SHOWN AT CHURCH

Artist and Traveler Again Gives Lecture Program With Slides

Beauties of foreign countries in native costume are seen in Franson De Cou's "Dream Pictures Around the World," a musical travelogue. His local appearances are sponsored by the Van Grove, Inc., 337 North Brand boulevard.

Last night Mr. De Cou entertained a large gathering at First Congregational church. On Friday night he will present his travelogue at the Van Grove salon, 337 North Brand boulevard. For this event admission will be by ticket, tickets being issued upon request.

Musical accompaniments are played by the Knabe Ampico, while Mr. De Cou shows art and photography, giving descriptions of the countries he visited. A feature of the pictures is their coloring, the work of a young woman artist.

FEEDERS LOWER

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Cattle on feed in the eleven corn belt states are only 92 per cent of those on the farms a year ago. In Iowa and Nebraska, feeding about one-fifth each of the total, the estimated number now being fed was 74 and 82 per cent respectively.

CLUB WOMEN SEE PLAYERS' COMEDY

T. A. C. Members Celebrate 'Husbands' Night' at 'Wedding Bells'

Entertained by the Dobinson Players at the first performance of the New York comedy success "Wedding Bells," Tuesday Afternoon club members, their husbands and other guests, enjoyed what members said was one of the most successful and thoroughly entertaining "Husbands' Nights" ever given by the club.

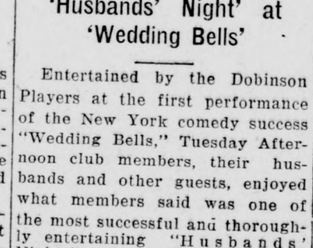
The auditorium of the clubhouse was filled to capacity for the initial performance of Dobinson Players' "Wedding Bells," given through the courtesy of Mrs. Florence Dobinson. It is one of the best plays yet presented by the popular players. A captivating divorcee, an undiplomatic bridegroom, a winsome bride-to-be, all appear in the play to create a truly mirth-provoking comedy. During the reception later in the evening members of the club met members of the "Wedding Bells" cast. Appreciation to Mrs. Dobinson and to Mrs. F. H. Wallace, program chairman of the club, was voiced by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president of the club.

Shrine Chanters Sing

Between the acts the Shrine Chanters of Hollywood, gave selections. Members of the quartet are Jackson Gregg, Carl Earl, tenors; A. J. Kisselburgh, director and baritone; Henry Schlargel, baritone. Music was given by the Dobinson Players' orchestra, directed by Gladys Lott.

Past presidents, officers, chairmen and curators of the club composed the reception committee. Refreshments were served from tables decorated with yellow candles in white holders, greenery and French bouquets.

LEGION NOTES



Plans for the new Legion's home to be erected by Verdugo Hills Post No. 288, American Legion, will be exhibited at a meeting of the post to be held tomorrow night at Stewart's Star garage, Montrose and Honolulu avenues, according to an announcement made today by A. G. Baron, commander of the post. The building fund is sufficiently large, according to reports, and actual construction work will start soon.

Thrift is the art of keeping one daughter at home while the other goes visiting and takes the silk nightgown.

Founders' Day

Contribution to the national Parent-Teacher association extension fund will be made by Glendale Federation, P.-T. A., following the "Founders' Day" celebration, Wednesday night, February 18, at Harvard High school. Admission is to be charged, the various associations in the city handling tickets. Mrs. L. D. Torrey, program chairman of the Federation, with program chairmen of the associations, is arranging the program. Each school is to present one number, the program to fill two hours. The climax of the celebration will be the candle-lighting ceremony participated in by past presidents of the Federation and association presidents. It is hoped that Mrs. J. Wesley Lee of Long Beach, president of First District, P.-T. A., will be guest of honor.

Wilson

Mrs. John F. Torrey of 329 North Kenwood street opened her home yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock for a benefit card party for the Wilson Parent-Teacher association. Eight tables were arranged for bridge and five-hundred. Mrs. C. L. Smith won first prize for bridge, and Mrs. E. S. Dodds, consolations. Mrs. W. A. Hartman was awarded the first prize for high score in five-hundred and Mrs. J. H. Ball, consolations. Light refreshments were served later by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. C. Jones, chairman of the card party committee. Mrs. H. C. Jones will be hostess at her home, 1215 East Wilson avenue, February 16, for a card party.

Pacific

The Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association will meet Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the school, with Mrs. W. G. Lauderdale, president, in charge. A patriotic program has been arranged. Refreshments will be served after the program in the cafeteria. A meeting of the executive board will be held at 2 o'clock in the sewing room.

Doran

Frank C. Weller, Glendale assemblyman, will speak on "Patriotism" at the meeting of Doran Parent-Teacher association tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the school. A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal of Glendale High school, will be present and speak on the bond issue. Mrs. Rhodes of the Emerson School of Self-Expression will give monologues. A business meeting will be held preceding the program.

GLENDALE LOOKS TO 'MISSION PLAY'

Section Reserved for Local People at San Gabriel Nearly Sold Out

Glendale service clubs and the Chamber of Commerce report a large number of tickets for Glendale night at the Mission Play already sold. The entire section of the Mission playhouse at San Gabriel will be reserved for Glendalians and their friends tomorrow night, according to arrangements made by Secretary Howard I. Wood of the Chamber of Commerce. The reserved seats are offered through the local organizations at less than half the regular price of admission. Hundreds of seats are expected to be filled by Glendale pers s.

Children of Glendale high and grammar schools will view the Mission Play on Saturday afternoon and night. Special arrangements to have all school children see the drama of early California days have been made between school authorities and John Steven McGroarty.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Feb. 3.—The regular monthly meeting of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce will be held tonight in the Montrose schoolhouse. A matter of intense interest to the entire community will be brought up for discussion, whether or not a motion picture concern will be welcomed in the valley. If the company is made to feel they will not be rebuffed, there is an opportunity for the community to grow with the upbuilding of the plant.

A petition will be presented for the signatures of the members opposing the change in name of the two principal thoroughfares of the valley. Many other matters of importance to the taxpayers will be brought up. The directors urge a full membership attendance. A welcome to newcomers in the town will be extended to those attending the meeting.

A. B. Cochran was appointed as vice-president to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of A. W. Kaune. Directors of the chamber are Mark S. Collins, W. Hickey, T. O. Potts, A. B. Cochran, Theodore Belanger, C. L. Mead, A. F. Sullivan, Frank Turner, and James L. Brown. Mr. Brown, president of the organization, will call the meeting promptly at 8 o'clock.

Giese & Payne, owners of the Oakmont Service station on Glendale boulevard in Sparr Heights, have opened the second of the chain of stations they expect to erect in the valley. The new station is situated at the corner of Ocean View and Honolulu avenues.

Mr. Maxwell of the Maxwell Service station on the corner of Broadview and Ocean View is passing out the cigars these days for his new daughter. The baby and mother are doing well

Mayor Robinson Will Not Be Candidate Again

plan to visit her, leaving next May. Therefore, I have positively decided not to be a candidate. I wish to thank all those who have offered me their support were I to run next April and, too, I want to thank all Glendale for the hearty co-operation given the mayor and other members of the City Council during Glendale's march in progress and prosperity."

Mayor Robinson has served the city as an official for five years. He was formerly a member of the Board of Trustees. When the city charter went into effect he was a candidate for councilman. He was elected, receiving the highest vote on the ticket. He was chosen by the council for mayor and was later re-elected by the council as mayor.

Works for Big Sewer

Mayor Robinson considers the municipal sewer project the greatest work of his administration. He devoted long study to the project, consulted often with Los Angeles city and county officials, and, finally, participated in the actual start on the construction, turning the first shovel of earth.

Various other municipal projects were brought up and furthered under his administration and, the mayor points out, Glendale has, during his term of office, progressed from the "small city" class into the metropolitan division.

While in office Mayor Robinson became known as "Glendale's singing mayor" because of his ability to sing during many public meetings and other gatherings.

"I have always—and always will—work the best I can for Glendale," said Mayor Robinson, "I have made mistakes, I know. But I have tried to be a true citizen. I have tried to give the best that was in me for Glendale. I have spent my own money on city's business. I have been glad to do so. I will continue to do so. Although I retire officially next April, I am ready for service in the ranks, ready to further Glendale's best interests, ready to do my bit for a bigger and better city."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Trading in the stock market today showed a considerable broadening as compared with the last few sessions. Traders were unwilling to confine their activities exclusively to the oil stocks but shifted in good volume to the rails and industrials, the latter embracing principally the motor shares and accessories stocks, the shipping stocks, utilities, sugars, etc.

Railroad stocks were bought in good volume on the strength of the very favorable traffic report of the American Railway association, which showed that the movement of freight in domestic trade will be the largest in the history of the country for this time of year. The northwestern roads were conceded a large percentage of traffic gains and buying of the stocks of these roads has been on an unusually large scale. Demand for St. Louis, San Francisco and other dividend stocks was based on belief that current prices had not fully discounted the recent changes for the better in the financial status of the companies.

Gasoline prices boosts were announced today by the Sinclair Co., Magnolia corporation, Standard Oil of Ohio and Standard of Louisiana. The effect was seen principally on the low priced independent oil stocks which, after halting on profit taking in the early trading, pushed upward to the highest levels for the current movement. Among the best performers in this class today were Independent Oil and Gas, Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil, Pure Oil, Phillips and the Pan-American.

The advance in the independent steels was based on reports of pending price advances in manufactured steel products in the southern and eastern markets. Gulf States, Republic & Crucible sold about 2 points higher on the average, while Bethlehem and Replogle were fractionally higher. Replogle's statement showing earnings of $1.18 a share in 1924, against a loss of nearly $1 a share in 1923, was encouraging.

Studebaker took the lead in the motor stocks and sold up to 45½ on rumors that the annual statement for 1924 will be very favorable. U. S. Rubber gained 2 points and sold up to 43½; Ajax Rubber gained a point at 12½; Kelly-Springfield was up 1 at 16¼.

High priced industrial leaders like Baldwin, General Electric and Cast Iron Pipe were unusually inactive with price trends slightly higher. With the sharp drop in prices of wheat and rye in the early afternoon, interest lagged in the stock market and transactions were reduced to a minimum. Call money was in good supply at 3½ per cent. Time funds unchanged.

Stock sales today totalled 1,608,900 shares; bonds, $15,298,500.

A PLEA FOR HELP

Perhaps among the readers of this paper there are a few men who have solemnly resolved that the end of 1925 would find them financially far better off than at the close of 1924.

To men who have that purpose, who are not afraid of hard work, and who have the tenacity to stay with it, we have the opportunity you are waiting for. We want several salesmen of ability and character to sell lots in one of the best fishing and mountain resort propositions in Southern California.

There is no pioneering to do, as this is an established enterprise, there being over 400 owners at the present time.

Spring is not far distant, and with it comes that longing for the mountains, trout fishing and all the other out-door pleasures that go with it.

To men who have ambition to get somewhere, we offer an unusually attractive proposition. There are no delays--- your money is always ready.

BY-PRODUCTS OF CATTLE BIG ITEM

Hundreds of Necessities Are Got From Ranges Beside Beef and Hides

By J. C. ROYLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Beef still is the backbone of the cattle industry, but by-products yield the profit to the buyers of cattle. That fact, according to some authorities, should be given deep consideration in working out executive plans for the betterment of the stock grower. The origin of some of the profits from live stock is shown in the figures for the past year issued by Swift and Co. These show that an average of $60 a head was paid for live cattle and $12.63 per head for expenses including freight, a total of $72.12. On the other hand, an average of $63.11 was received for beef and $11.55 for by-products, leaving a profit of $1.95 a head.

Few consumers and growers know what these by-products are or the purpose for which they are used. In the old days of the open range they were nothing but 'offal." Then beef and hide were the only products of the steer considered. Today the packer even evaporates cooking water and floor cleaning water to save material used for fertilizers.

From every steer's hide comes leather for various uses, hair for upholstery, curled hair, brushes, felt and plaster retardent, glue, fertilizer and tallow. The fats both edible and inedible furnish oleo oil and stearine for oleomargerine, cremol for confectionery, glycerine, tallow for soaps and other purposes, fertilizer, tankage and red bone marrow. The head of the animal yields glue, animal feed, bone meat, buttons, combs and other novelties, knife handles and fertilizer. From the feet come glue, tankage, tallow, meats, foot oil, bone articles, animal feed and ossein for gelatine.

Every Drop Used

Every drop of blood is utilized to produce albumen, serum, textile sizing, waterproof glue, blood meal and flour, animal feed and pharmaceuticals. The weasand, bladder and intestines form containers for sausage, lard, cheese, snuff, and putty and are used to make gold beaters' skins. Even the gall bag and gall stones yield incense, charms used in the Orient, perfumes and medicines.

The glands and gall are widely used for medicinal purposes and this use is increasing constantly. Insulin is one of the new medicines produced from animal glands. Pituitrine thyroid extract and a new heart stimulant are others. Many of these glands are so tiny that it takes the product from hundreds of thousands of cattle to yield even small commercial quantities.

The development of new uses for the by-products of cattle is making cattle themselves more valuable according to the packers. They say the price of steers depends primarily upon the price which can be obtained for the various products. They hope to be able shortly to sell meat for less than is paid for live cattle, depending on the by-product to cover expenses and yield a profit.

By-Products Exported

The United States now exports comparatively little beef. Breaking up of the old ranges into farms has heightened the cost of production as compared with the Argentine meats and the increasing requirements of the American population leaves little surplus for export. This country, however, continues to ship large quantities of by-products which with pork and lard maintain it as the leading meat exporter of the world. Of these by-products the largest are beef fats and oils used in oleomargarine manufactured in Europe where Holland is the main customer.

Cattle marketings recently have been heavy in proportion to the cattle population of the feeder states since corn and forage are high and many growers and feeders desired to get rid of their stock to save feeding expense. The price trend has been relatively firm but there must be still further advances in the price of cattle and heavier demand for by-products before the situation of the grower will become satisfactory.

FRIENDLESS DOGS PLEAD ADOPTION

Humane Society Solicits Aid For Homeless Airedale, Other Unfortunates

Once I was somebody's darling
They cared for me day and night
But now there's none to love me
So I try to hide from sight.

Out in the Animal Shelter, at the foot of Ivy street, in Glendale, with his wistful nose pressed against the bars of his cage and his pleading brown eyes ever watching, sits a majestic old airedale. When any one approaches watching, sits a majestic old airhis dwelling a huge brown paw is lifted in dog greeting, but the sad, pleading look in the brown eyes never changes—for he is searching, ever searching for the ones he has lost, who have never returned to find him.

Sometimes he seems to realize that the younger dogs are finding homes but that, in his case, as in the case of the human aged and penniless, there is no one who wants him.

Who, for the unselfish love of "dog-kind" will be willing to make the last years of an old pal's life happy?

"I am hale and hearty but I am not a youngster and this is a young man's age," he seems to say; "and if no one wants me I will have to be put to sleep to make space for the younger dogs." For while the hearts of the Humane Society, who run the shelter, are as big as the world, the available funds are pitifully small and the space pitifully limited.

Won't you listen to the plea of this old airedale and that of his dog friends and do something to help them? Anyone interested should call Mrs. Edwin Kulp, Glendale 2726-J.

NEW PHONE RATES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Increased rates and measured telephone service went into effect here under order from the State Railroad commission. The new rates applied to practically every kind of service. The measured service applies only to business phones and is optional to subscribers until January 1, 1926, under the commission's order.

PLANS COLLEGE BUILDING

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 3.—With $150,000 allowed in the biennial budget for buildings at the Santa Barbara State college here, President Clarence L. Phelps this week is outlining plans for a new structure two stories in height, 320 feet long, which will include an auditorium and classrooms, as well as administration offices, museum and library.

SOCIETY TAKES ACTION

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 3.—The Santa Barbara Humane society, through Robert L. Ste. Fleure, today is taking action against auto owners who permit irresponsible children to drive cars as the result of Abraham Ikeda, who is in his early 'teens, having run down a small tot. Henry Ikeda, the father, is under arrest.

HAVE HOPES FOR U. C. S. B.

FULLERTON, Feb. 3.—George Raymer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, returned from Los Angeles with the report that the site offered the University of California for its southern branch by the city of Fullerton is considered as the only alternative to one nearer Los Angeles, which was not named to him. Through the legislature he still has hopes of locating the institution in Orange county.

BEWARE OF ABALONE

SANTA ANA, Feb. 3.—Persons taking, selling or in possession of abalone, the finest of the fish, some say, will be prosecuted here, according to Ed Adkinson, deputy state fish and game inspector. The abalone season closed January 15 and arrests of violators are expected.

PASTOR SCORES JURIES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 3.—Likening trials by jury to stage farces of justice, the Rev. Luther A. Arthur, pastor of the First Baptist church here, bitterly criticized the handling of liquor cases in Orange county in a sermon last night. He likened jurors to hypocrites for verdicts returned in recent cases.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT

SANTA ANA, Feb. 3.—"Yes, it's true," says M. F. Sullivan, local merchant, "that you can't sell people paper money at a profit." He offered a dollar bill to those would sign a card for 50 cents. The card read: "I take it upon myself to take said bill without holding the above firm responsible for the bill being good U. S. money." Of 500 people who visited Sullivan's establishment only one high school boy, Merton Bixley, would take a chance on the cheap currency.

SUE TO CLEAR ESTATE

LONG BEACH, Feb. 3.—A friendly action has been instituted in Orange county courts to clear title to the Long Beach Telegram corporation, an estate left by the late editor, Frank C. Roberts. Belle McCord Roberts, J. J. Penny and Walter Case, executors, were named defendants.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Feb. 3.—Y. M. C. A. headquarters are to be established here. Those back of the movement are Rev. Thomas Stevenson of the Presbyterian church. Rev. H. O. Simmons of the Methodist church, Rev. Streit of the Evangelical church, Dr. T. E. McGuire and J. L. Norwood, representaing Burbank, with Rev. C. Kelley from the Glendale headquarters, representing the Y. M. C. A. of the district.

Actual transfer of authority has been made by the Glendale organization, which heretofore has cared for Burbank's Y needs. Rev. Simmons is president of the new organization and Mr. Norwood secretary. Hi-Y, Junior and Boy Scout departments have been organized and Secretary Norwood has been authorized to provide a suitable location for headquarters.

Mrs. A. Jamison has taken out a permit for the erection of a 4-room house and garage at 1803 Lincoln street, to cost $2,250. This is said to be the first of fifty houses of like character to be built by Mrs. Jamison in that locality.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Stephens of Caruthersville, Missouri, have arrived in Burbank and are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ashabranner at 512 Tujunga avenue. Mr. Stephens is a nephew of Mr. Ashabranner. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens are delighted with California and have decided to make Burbank their home.

February 4 is the date set for the visit of foreign consuls to the Burbank and Glendale industrial areas, it is announced by Manager J. W. Charleville of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Marvin Zimmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Zimmerman of Santa Rosa court, who underwent a major operation recently, is recovering rapidly. The family came here from Whitewater, Wisconsin, for the benefit of the son's health.

AUTO CRASH FATAL

REEDLEY, Cal., Feb. 3.—Walter Cummings, 15, is dead here today and his brother Andrew is injured as the result of having been struck by an automobile on the Fresno highway, just outside of this town. Andrew is expected to recover, according to physicians. The driver of the death car failed to stop after the accident and is being searched for by police and deputy sheriffs.

COAL PRODUCTION

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3.—Coal production in the West Moreland district, Connellsville region and Panhandle sections of West Virginia show material improvement, according to a survey completed by coal producers here. Steam slack is selling here at $1.40 a ton.

Some businesses continue good, but there isn't room on the street for all of us to have filling stations.

$10,000 Asked As Damage By 'Jazz' Music

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 3.—The harm done by "jazz" music to the younger generation may be measured in dollars and cents. Such is the belief, at least, of Francis E. Woodward, professor of music, who, in order to prevent the playing of modern versions of operas by Wagner and Liszt today brought suit against a Spokane orchestra and its leader for $10,000. The professor sought to have the orchestra restrained from playing opera airs in syncopated time as announced at a concert set for Thursday night.

"Jazz music written for jazz dancing is all right if you want it, but it is an incorrect idea of classical music and things have gone so far that children no longer desire a musical education," declared Professor Woodward.

Penn State Boosts Gas Two Cents Per Gallon

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 3.—An increase of 2 cents a gallon in gasoline prices in Pennsylvania and Delaware was made today by the Atlantic Refining Co., according to announcement at the company's office here. The boost will make motor grade gasoline cost 24 cents and high-test gasoline 27 cents, including a 2-cent state tax in Pennsylvania.

United Workmen Plan Memorial Services

Memorial services will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night by the Ancient Order of United Workmen in the Legion hall on East Broadway, according to Mrs. Mary M. Morrow, who invites all sojourning members to attend.

CRAFT TALKS AT EXCHANGE CLUB

Preventative Dentistry and Reforestation Subjects Of Discussions

Craft talks by Dr. T. P. Noehle and W. R. Vanderwood featured the meeting of the Glendale Exchange club held today noon at the Masonic temple. President William Baker presided. Dr. Noehle spoke on preventative dentistry, while Mr. Vanderwood discussed reforestation, both talks being illustrated by motion pictures.

Musical entertainment was furnished by the Sutton sisters, Beatrice, Lillian and Laurilla. J. H. Kane of the Hollywood Exchange club, spoke on the dinner dance to be given by that organization February 10 at the Masonic temple in Hollywood. D. Ripley Jackson reported there were seventy-six reservations made for the dinner dance to be given by the Glendale club at Sunset Country club on February 12.

Woman Psychologist Sees Change, Not End

Some religious leaders are not far wrong in claiming that the end of the world is near, according to Verona Georgina Hull, a psychologist, who arrived in Glendale last Sunday for a series of lectures at the Tuesday Afternoon club.

"Only I don't expect it to be a spectacular affair of tidal waves, poison gases and re-embodied spirits. And I don't expect it will come on any certain day," she said today.

"Nevertheless, this world, or whorl, or era, or whatever you care to call it, is rapidly drawing to a close, and we are at the beginning of a new phase of earth existence."

Psychologists and students of the human mind are amazed at the expansion of the human mind in the last twenty years, according to Miss Hull. And they point to the present avalanche of crimes, matricides, lawlessness and jazz as the dying convulsions of the old order.

"We are going into a period sometimes described as the ages of aries, or air period," she said. "We shall see the air used for transportation, communication, power and food; and the human mind will be trained and expanded so that the earth will be as different from the one we know as if it had actually been destroyed."

Miss Hull opens her local engagement tomorrow night.

Women's Athletic Club Starts Week of Work

Women of the Athletic club began a week of activity last night with a meeting of the gymnasium class at Harvard High school. Today the golf section is meeting in Griffith park for golf over the park links and a business session and picnic luncheon. The tennis group is meeting in Brookside park, Pasadena. Members of the swimming section will hold a tournament Friday at the Pasadena Y. W. C. A., when points will be awarded for personal accomplishment. Club members and friends will be entertained Thursday night at a benefit card party at the home of Mrs. C. M. Conkling, 456 West Myrtle street. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Conkling, Glendale 3674-J.

Burglar Suspect Held For Criminal Court

Henry Karwoski, arrested January 17 by Glendale police on suspicion of burglary, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the local police court and bound over to the Los Angeles superior court in $1000 bail. He was taken to the county jail.

R. H. G. Smith of Hollywood, arrested yesterday on a bad check charge, was released on $500 bond, following arraignment yesterday afternoon before Judge Lowe. He was represented by Attorney G. H. King. His trial has not yet been set.

Glendale Baptists In Attendance at Meet

Members of the Glendale Baptist church attended the Baptist institute held yesterday afternoon at the University Baptist church in Los Angeles. Dr. Springston, state educational director, had charge of the sessions. Attending the meeting were: Rev. and Mrs. Ernest E. Ford, Mrs. Husted, Miss Delva Wood, Mrs. Arthur Sisley, Mrs. Clara Stone, Mrs. Grace Timmons and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Howard. The institute is being held each afternoon and evening this week.

INJURED IN CRASH

Two cars crashed at the intersection of Canada boulevard and Verdugo road shortly after noon today. H. J. Simpson of Hollywood, driver of one car, was taken to the Glendale Research hospital, suffering severe cuts and bruises. H. Settere of Ocean Park, driver of the other car, was taken to the Glendale hospital, with a possible fracture of the collarbone. Both machines were badly wrecked, police reported.

We become what we read. The man who reads bull about the oppressive capitalistic system soon becomes cowed.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Meeting Tonight

Reports by Mrs. Charles Nagle, chairman of the membership committee on the progress being made in the membership drive staged by Glendale American Legion auxiliary and Glendale post No. 127 were given at the meeting of the auxiliary held last night at the home of Mrs. James F. McBryde, 524 West Burchett street. A meeting of the committee with the Legion post will be held tonight at the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, president, directed the meeting. Reports from members who have been attending installations of other auxiliaries were given. Mrs. George L. Kaeding reported on the installation at Tujunga last Thursday night. Mrs. James McBryde, who is the ninth district committee woman and whose duty it is to organize new auxiliary units, reported that she had attended installations at Orange, Santa Ana, Monrovia, Covina, Claremont and Pomona during the past few weeks. Mrs. McBryde will be the installing officer for the installation of officers of the auxiliary of Eagle Rock tonight. A unit has recently been organized at Verdugo Hills post and another will be organized at Sierra Madre on February 12. Announcement was made of the luncheon to be given Friday at the Hotel Clark in Los Angeles, honoring Mrs. Lillie Samuels, state president, and Mrs. Elizabeth I. Drendell, state secretary and treasurer. Members of the Glendale auxiliary plan to attend. Visitors at the meeting were: Mrs. LaBrum, sister of Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. Vorce and Mrs. Saunders. Light refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Four Initiated

Four candidates were initiated at the meeting last night of Glen Rose circle, Neighbors of Woodcraft, at Hahn's hall, 109A North Brand boulevard. Mrs. Minnie V. Littleton, guardian neighbor, directed the business meeting. Mrs. Fussell, of Los Angeles, district organizer, was present and gave a talk. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held February 16.

At Carmack Home

Chapter AH P. E. O., will meet tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Effie Carmack, 811 South Central avenue. Luncheon will be served with Mrs. Mildred Kimball, Mrs. Sina Van Etten and Miss Hattie Myers as assisting hostesses. A business meeting will be held following the luncheon after which a program will be presented.

P. E. O. Chapter

Chapter DJ P. E. O., will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, 121 South Cedar street for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. O. A. Danielson, president will conduct a business meeting after the luncheon. Mrs. Marion Lennox will have charge of the constitutional quiz.

Mrs. Pearl Foster of 467 West Wilson avenue was a guest Sunday of her mother in Alhambra.

Gus Bauman of South San Fernando road spent Sunday in Montrose, where he was a guest of H. E. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ashburn and family, who moved recently to Pasadena, were visitors in Glendale this week-end.

Banker Takes Part In Conference on 'War'

Charles F. Stern, president of the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, who recently accepted the post of "The Quartermaster General" in the Winter Plattsburg, now in progress in Southern California, with Los Angeles as the headquarters of Lt. Col. James M. Hutchinson, QM., U. S. Army, executive officer, last night addressed the conference in the California Bank building on "Business Aspects of Industrial Mobilization." With William Lacy, former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, acting as "The Assistant Secretary of War," the Winter Plattsburg is well under way in the study of the problem of industrial mobilization in Southern California in the event of war. In the words of Col. Hutchinson, one of the purposes of the Winter Plattsburg is "to make the American officer, the American business man, and the American people think."

Colorado Improvement Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association will be held tonight in the City Council chambers. Officers will be elected and committee reports read setting forth work accomplished during the past year. Present officers of the association are: J. M. Boland, president; A. W. Hewitt, secretary and treasurer.

Auto Victim Joins In 'Hubbys' Night' Party

"Husbands Night" last night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse proved a happy occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Whiting of 512 North Kenwood street, for it was the first time Mr. Whiting was able to attend an event at the clubhouse since he was injured some months ago in an automobile accident. He held an informal reception after the play, greeting his friends.

REMAIN NEUTRAL ON SCHOOL BONDS

Advancement Association at Meeting Today Tables Move to Endorse

The Glendale Advancement association, after an hour's discussion, voted today noon to "remain on the fence" and table a motion which had for its purpose the endorsement of the proposed school bond issues. After W. E. Hewitt, chairman of the publicity committee in charge of the bond campaign, had spoken in behalf of the $2,400,000 issues, J. C. Sherer took the floor and attacked the High school system from a number of angles, claiming in conclusion that "the school authorities would bankrupt the county if needs be to get all the money they want to spend."

Dr. Jessie Russell plead in behalf of endorsement of the bonds. On suggestion of Herman Nelson a motion was placed by Elwood Ingledue that the motion be tabled. It was seconded by J. F. Chandler. The vote was questioned by Mr. Chandler and a rising vote showed the assemblage in favor of tabling 6 to 4. Many members failed to register a vote either for or against.

Plans for a celebration coincident with the turning of juice into the new lights on Glendale avenue will be worked out by a committee of the Glendale Advancement association. The committee will be headed by Mrs. Mabel Tight.

Facts in regard to possibilities of turning the Maple avenue reservoir into a park will be sought by a committee headed by Elwood Ingledue and including A. B. Heacock and J. F. McClish. President C. W. Ingledue presided at the meeting, which was held at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Burglars Enter Home Taking Minor Articles

Burglars last night visited the home of W. E. Coleman, 1551 Columbia drive, and later went next door, entering the home of 1353 Columbia drive. At both houses they took minor articles of jewelry. The Glendale police made an investigation but found no clew.

K. D. Erb of 441 West Hawthorne street, reported today the theft of four window sashes from a construction job at 443 West Hawthorne street. Boys again broke into the Broadway school, it was reported, but took nothing. Chester Mittendorf of 322½ West Colorado boulevard, reported theft of an overcoat from his car parked on North Orange street.

lections. The quartet was assisted by Alfred Bryant, son of Dr. A. L. Bryant. A midnight lunch was served in the jinks room in the basement of the lodge building.

Secretary Walter W. Jones announced today that further nominations will be in order at each meeting during February. Election of the new officers will take place at the meeting on March 2.

Silver Wedding Party Given Glendale Couple

The Norman Ashcroft home in Sherlock canyon, Burbank, was the scene of a silver wedding anniversary celebration, last Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Ashcroft and Dr. Libbie Ashcroft were honored Saturday night at a surprise silver wedding party arranged by Hollywood friends. On Sunday both were hosts at a family dinner. The Ashcrofts lived for eighteen years in Hollywood, coming to Glendale three years ago.

Ancient Buick Given First License In City

One of the oldest Buick cars in good-running order in Glendale, 1916 model, owned by Mrs. Stella Goodman, had the honor of receiving the first license plate for 1925 that was issued in the city yesterday. She received the number 740,806, the lowest issued in the city.

Park Board Adjourns For Want of Quorum

The Park board met this morning at the city hall and adjourned for lack of a quorum. L. H. Wilson, chairman, is out of the city and other members were absent. The next meeting is scheduled for 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, February 17.

DEATHS – FUNERALS

MRS. ESTHER HUNTER

Mrs. Esther Hunter died this morning, Tuesday, February 3, 1925, at her home, 441 West Ivy street, from a stroke of apoplexy she suffered yesterday afternoon. She was born sixty-three years ago in England and had been in the United Sattes over forty years. She had lived in Glendale one year. Surviving her are three sons, William and Robert Hunter of Glendale and Hugh Hunter of Danbury, Conn. Mrs. Hunter was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal church. Funeral services will be held Thursday morning in the L. G. Scovern chapel. Burial will take place in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

There is no depreciation to take into consideration when you build a Pacific Home. Immediately upon completion its value increases and if you are building it for speculative purposes the margin of profit will be greater. But the majority of our customers build Pacific Homes to live in for the years to come realizing that the plan they select is perfect in every detail and that the materials are of highest quality. The home illustrated above is one of the newer designs recently released by the architectural department of the Pacific organization. It is finished in stucco but redwood siding can be substituted if desired. Let us show you the plan.

OWENS QUESTION STILL UNSETTLED

Water Wranglers Get No Place After Conference Held In Los Angeles

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3.—Yes, the operation was a success, but the patient died. That, in brief, might describe the situation resulting from the attempted investigation, or rather the attempted attempt to investigate the Los Angeles-Owens valley water wrangle by two senators and two assemblymen here yesterday.

Today the Inyo county ranchers once again are pursuing their course of endeavoring to drive a good deal with the Los Angeles bureau of public service through its intermediate representatives, while members of the Legislature who were selected by Lieut. Governor C. C. Young and Speaker Frank Merriam are en route to their homes with the exception of Senator Thomas Ingram who is enjoying a vacation from his editorial duties on the Grass Valley Morning Union, one of the Prisk publications.

Only One to Escape

Senator Ingram was the only member of the committee who was not imputated, insinuated, cremated, or something during the seven-hours' argument between Senator Herbert C. Jones, progressive leader of San Jose, and Assemblymen Edward J. Smith and Robert P. Easley, administration members of the lower house, who objected to Clyde L. Seavey, member of the State Railroad commission, as the fifth member of the inquisitorial body.

The writer personally rewarded Senator Ingram with a trip about town last evening, including a theatre party, for conducting himself in a manner reflecting credit on the newspaper business. That, however, is beyond the point.

Echoes of the commission's failure to agree are going to be heard in Sacramento later in the month, it is to be presumed. Recriminations already are the order of the day. Of all the good coming out of a wasted day's effort, for which the city of Los Angeles and the ranchers share the expense "fifty-fifty," is the announcement that Clyde L. Seavey has no intention of being a candidate for governor.

Rev. Johnson to Give Final Sabbath Sermon

The concluding message on the Sabbath question "Is Sunday the Sabbath?" will be given by Rev. Maurice M. Johnson, pastor of the Broadway Methodist church, South, at the mid-week service Thursday night at the Broadway church. Fellowship dinner will be served at 6 o'clock followed by the Community Bible class. At the service held last week 125 people were present.

Mid-Week Prayer for Baptists Tomorrow

The regular mid-week prayer service will be held tomorrow night at the Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock with Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor, in charge.

DISCUSS LIGHTS IN ATWATER DISTRICT

Members of Association Favor Uniform Type of Standards be Installed; Library Branch is Assured

After half an hour of discussion, the Atwater Community Improvement association voted last night to advocate the installation of a standard uniform variety of ornamental street lights on all streets in the Atwater Park district lying north of Glendale boulevard and south of Los Feliz road.

In a resolution to the Art Commission of the city of Los Angeles, voted favorably on at the meeting, no specific kind of light standards is recommended, but the desire of property owners that uniformity be carried out with the same kind of standards on all the streets in the district is strongly voiced.

Wrangling over varieties of street lights and street lighting petitions that has been irritating sections of the Atwater Park district for several months was brought to a head last night when a resolution was introduced by Clayton S. Decker, calling upon the association to definitely take a stand in the light controversy. Mr. Decker's resolution was the one which, when several amendments had been made, was finally adopted.

Whether Marble-Lite standards, pressed steel standards or no standards at all should be installed along the Atwater streets was discussed at length. Whether paid representatives of light standard companies should be permitted to circulate petitions, whether the association should become entangled in the affair or whether the interested property owners themselves should be left to work out the problem, were angles also taken up.

Sentiment of the meeting seemed to favor pressed steel standards rather than those of the Marble-Lite Co., President Arthur Gilman said. The resolution calling for a uniform fixture for the entire section in no wise prevents the property owners from coming to a mutual agreement on any of the several proposed varieties of standards, it was pointed out. In a number of instances petitions favoring one kind of standard or another have already been signed by more than 50 per cent of the property owners.

Talks on Highways

L. T. Rowley, chairman of the highways and bridges committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce spoke before the several hundred members of the Atwater Improvement association who attended the meeting at the Neighborhood Christian church last night.

Mr. Rowley talked on co-operative endeavor between Glendale and Atwater Park and stressed the necessity for passage of proposed bond issues for more and new bridges across the Los Angeles river, to be submitted on the May election ballot. Glendale's support in gaining the passage of the bonds was pledged by Mr. Rowley.

Library Is Assured

Because city officials and members of the library board have given assurance that a bond issue to provide thirty branch libraries throughout Los Angeles will be one of the propositions on the May ballot, and that, with the passage of these bonds, the Atwater district will be assured a library site and building, no further action by the improvement association will be taken at this time to secure the erection of a building by private individuals.

It is proposed to submit the branch library bond issue at the next election and Atwater will be one of the thirty sites included, E. R. Perry, chairman of the library board, has assured officers of the association. An appeal to all residents of the district to assist in securing passage of the bonds was urged at last night's meeting.

Discuss School Site

Members of the Atwater Improvement association will join in an effort now under way to keep the University of California, southern branch, within the municipal confines of the city of Los Angeles. In this movement the Atwater residents will urge that an offer of a small site near Griffith park, made by the Griffith estate, be accepted.

Realizing their chances of keeping the university at its present location are slight, and with the word of the board of regents that the Griffith park site would be inadequate in size, the association is preparing to join in a stubborn battle against the location of the school at Palos Verdes above all other things. Burbank, recognized as a leading contender for the university site, would be favored in opposition to Palos Verdes, President Gilman said.

Ask School Subways

If bonds are to be voted by the city of Los Angeles for subway pedestrian passages at main school crossings, the Atwater association will urge that the amount of the bonds be materially raised from the proposed $500,000, so that an adequate number of crossings can be taken care of, and will ask that the intersection of Atwater avenue and Glendale boulevard, extensively used by school children of the district, be included among the tunnel projects.

The estimated cost of a tunnel at the Atwater crossing would be $8000, it was stated. The matter will be taken up in detail by the executive committee and will be resubmitted to the membership at the time of the next regular meeting, to be held two weeks from last night at the Atwater Baptist church. Gordon Whitnall, member of the Los Angeles City Planning commission, will be the main speaker on that night, it was announced.

Fight Garbage Plant

Five city councilmen stand pledged to vote against locating the municipal incinerator and garbage disposal plant in the Los Angeles river between Los Feliz road and Glendale boulevard, George Daniels told members of the association in reporting on a protest he carried from residents of the Atwater district to the council. There is no chance of the plant's being located near Atwater, he declared.

The Atwater Community Improvement association voted last night to become a member of the Consolidated Improvement associations body, functioning in Los Angeles. J. J. Wray will represent the Atwater interests.

Chairman Gilman called upon all property owners still having petitions on lower street car fares to return the petitions fully signed as soon as possible. Though 3000 names have been turned in, over half the petitions are still in circulation, he said.

Street and sidewalk work in the section of the tract north of Glendale boulevard will be completed within the next several months, Chairman Decker of the roads committee told the members.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Feb. 3.—The proposed bonds for the Glendale Union High school district to be voted on this month have met with approval among the various organizations of Tujunga. The Tujunga Valley Realty Board and the local Kiwanis club are the latest to express approval in regular meetings.

In the possibility that the new Tujunga slogan—"2500 Population in 1927"—has every chance of materialization lies the important reason why these bonds should be voted and the local schools built at the earliest possible moment, is the belief of the residents.

The realty board also appointed a committee to investigate the practicability of running a belt line bus service in Tujunga and Sunland for the benefit of local shoppers in getting to the stores. George L. Aiken and A. J. Marsh are the committee and will report at the next meeting of the realty board on Monday.

Charles Emmons was the principal speaker scheduled for this weeks meeting of the Kiwanis club. Mr. Emmons is a member of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club.

Starting next Wednesday, February 4, a representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California will be at the Haines Canyon Water company's office on Sunset boulevard from 12 to 1:30 p. m. to assist motorists in applying for their 1925 licenses. The service will continue on Wednesday at the same time throughout the month of February.

A crowd that filled the hall to capacity was present to enjoy the first reception and dance given by the newly organized Tujunga Masons. Dancing to a five-piece orchestra was enjoyed and later refreshments were served by the members of the lodge.

PLAYERS OPEN IN COMEDY SUCCESS

'Wedding Bells' Presented by Mrs. Dobinson's Stock At Playhouse

"Wedding Bells" may chime for us as often as the Florence Dobinson Players at the Playhouse Theatre have a mind. It would take many performances of this comedy with its epigrams, clean fun, philosophy and portrayal by a more than ordinarily clever company, to satiate us.

Salisbury Field's new comedy appeared for the first time in New York, where it was given favorable reviews by the critics. It sparkles without the necessity of resorting to risque jokes to evoke applause. There is not a naughty wife, or a morally threadbare husband. It is just three acts of joyous fun.

Of the individual performances of the players, it is hard to choose. Every one of them was out to give everything he or she had to the respective role and the result left nothing to be desired. The players filled their roles and the roles were suited to the players. Mary Worth, the leading woman, as Rosalie, Joseph McManus, the leading man, as Reginald Carter, Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, ingenue lead, as Marcia Hunter, Richard Ehlers, juvenile lead, as Fuzisaki, a Japanese houseboy, Laura Winston, Mildred Evelyn, George C. Pearce, Harold Howard and William H. Stephens are in the cast.

Among the artists who appeared in the first production of the comedy in New York were Wallace Eddinger, Margaret Lawrence, Jessie Glendenning, Percy Ames and George Burton. Last night it was a "sell out."

Auto's Part In Crime Told Over Radio Wave

"Not only does the automobile play an important part in most of the crimes committed today, but automobiles and their drivers provide, in a great many cases, means of livelihood for a vast number of criminals throughout the country," Under-Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz told radio listeners over KFI. "The biggest 'don't' in motoring is don't pick up strangers along the highways. This applies even to boys seeking rides to the beaches on Sundays. For one reason or another picking persons up is wrong and dangerous in almost every instance. One of the greatest modern menaces is the accessory thief. Automobile strippers soon turn to stealing the cars themselves, becoming in a short time, first class auto thieves. Records show that over one-third of the criminals arrested by Chief Deputy Harry Bispham and his assistants for this brand of outlawry are juveniles. Some of them have recently confessed to stealing as high as thirty cars before being caught."

Under-Sheriff Biscailuz also explained the procedure necessary in securing 1925 license plates.
